HUNDREDS DENY AIDING UTILITY

Lobby Investigators Told Persons All Over U S Claim They Did Not Send Wires

FIRM PAID FOR MESSAGES

Matter May Be Referred to Federal Communications Committee for Action

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 23—Chairman Black of the senate lobby committee said today persons from all over the United States had denied sending anti utility bill telegrams to which their names had been attached and the matter may be referred to the federal communications commission

It will be impossible for this committee to go into every case even those received up to date Black said

The Alabaman made the statement after Rep Driscoll Democrat of Pennsylvania had informed the committee of receipts of further denials from persons whose names had been signed to telegrams asking him to vote against the utility death sentence measure

Luther A Coleman Postal Telegraph manager at York Pa had just informed the committee that 66 telegrams had been sent to senators and congressmen from that city and only five had been paid for by individuals

The remainder were paid for by the Metropolitan Edison Co a subsidiary of the Associated Gas & Electric Co he added

Black read a letter from a Western Union official saying the company was investigating about 1 000 instances at Warren Pa to determine how many persons actually signed the telegrams

Previous testimony had been that an Associated Gas employe dictated several hundred telegrams using names from the city directory Some of them went to Driscoll

Black said an inquiry showed about half of 250 persons interviewed had said they were against the bill and half were for it

So Mr Herron was about 50 per cent wrong said Sen Minton Democrat of Indiana He referred to P P Herron bond salesman of an Associated company subsidiary who had testified he knew the persons whose names were placed on the messages were against the utility bill

U S Agents Confer With Both Sides in Effort To Reach Agreement

By The Associated Press

TERRE HAUTE Ind July 23—National guardsmen used tear gas for a second time shortly before noon today to disperse a crowd assembled at a stamping mill whose labor troubles fomented a general strike called in this city

Guard officers reported that a crowd of several hundred men surged up to the patrols surrounding the plant and ignored orders to disperse

Few Businesses Run

Only a bare sprinkling of business houses opened as from 1 500 to 2 000 Indiana national guardsmen tightened down military control

A guardsman Eugene Harvey of Martinsville received face and breast injuries this morning when hit on the head with a piece of cement as approximately 1 000 strike sympathizers resisted militiamen who set up a mile square military zone around the plant of the Columbian Enameling & Stamping Co whose opposition to a closed shop started the controversy

Five Under Arrest

Windows were broken and tear gas bombs thrown before the crowd was dispersed Five of the alleged sympathizers were arrested and placed in the military and city prison

Walter J Smith who said he was work manager of the Enameling plant and that he spoke for C E Gorby president asserted today there would be no compromise with the strikers that the plant would open in three days or a week or 10 days at the outside as soon as repairs have been made

Two conciliators for the U S department of labor today began conferring with the strikers and company officials

Although only a few stores including eating establishments opened Brig Gen D Wray De Prez in charge of national guard forces said stores can open if they wish and will be adequately protected He said employes of a brewing company and dairies had indicated they wanted to return to work

Hooting groups began to congregate as guards early today continued to pour into this city from all parts of the state Other military zones have been established around the local utility plants

Smith said an employment office will open some time today for

U. S. INVESTIGATORS PROBE LIQUOR CASES

Officers Will Report Findings Here to District Attorney in Toledo

Two investigators from the office of the United States district attorney at Toledo spent two hours in Marion yesterday assembling information about cases of 10 persons charged with liquor law violators They returned to Toledo last night to report to District Attorney Paul Manton who will decide whether the federal government will prosecute the cases

The investigators came on Manton's orders at the request of Police Chief E C Mackan who said he is desirous of turning over to federal authorities cases of all persons who are preparing to fight liquor violation charges filed against them in connection with a series of liquor raids last Thursday

Chief Mackan said he obtained no information from the investigators regarding the possibility of transferring the cases to federal court explaining the decision rests with the district attorney

Any persons whose cases are taken over by federal authorities probably will face more severe charges in federal court than those pending against them in municipal court here Chief Mackan said

GOVERNOR AIMS AT BOOTLEGGER

Intends To Plug Liquor Leaks and Increase Revenue 50 to 100 Per Cent

MAPS ENFORCEMENT DRIVE

Says Consumption Will Not Be Increased Attacks Big City Newspapers

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O July 23—Gov Davey served notice today he intends to build up the enforcement division of the state liquor department with the aim of increasing the liquor tax revenues from 50 to 100 per cent

It is my judgment the governor said that we can increase the liquor tax revenues from 50 to 100 per cent over the previous $6 000 000 a year by a real enforcement drive against bootleggers

This will not increase the consumption of liquor by one drop but will force the present business into legitimate channels

Here and now I serve notice of a determination to build up the liquor enforcement department to the size and effectiveness that may be necessary to achieve this end

The governor asserted the unscrupulous critics will find their answer in the increased revenues from legitimate sales

The governor complained that big city newspapers had grossly misrepresented his attitude toward the Sherrill committee reports

Davey said he was quoted as saying that the business group should have known you could not run a state as you can run a business because of the political factors This he said is a dishonest misquotation

What I actually said the governor continued was this in the very beginning when the business men responded to my invitation I explained to them that you could not run a government quite like you would run a private business because there are political factors that can not be ignored If we can put into effect 75 per cent of your recommendations we will have done an outstanding job

Small U.S. Coins Planned To Help Pay Sales Levy

Morgenthau Wants Law for Minting of One Mill and Half Cent Pieces

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 23 — The midget coins the government proposes to mint will save sales tax payers money officials said today and also will return a tidy profit for the treasury

Secretary Morgenthau announced that within the next day or so congress will be asked to grant permission for the creation of half cent and one mill pieces The purpose it was said was to correct inequities in sales tax systems which now prevail in 22 states

For example it was said that most of these states have a two per cent sales levy If a person makes a 25 cent purchase the tax would be a half cent But at present there is no half cent coin and so in many instances a full cent is collected

The profit to the government will be in the form of seigniorage Last year coinage of one cent pieces alone netted the treasury a profit of $330 000

Morgenthau denied that the treasury's decision foretold a federal sales tax The new coins may be of copper but Morgenthau was not prepared to say this definitely

If the plan goes through the mints will face busy times Even without such added work they had one of their busiest years in the fiscal 12 month ended June 30

The domestic coin output was 608 414 207 pieces valued at $30 131 127 In addition the mints produced 68 500 401 pieces for several latin American governments

NAZI RULE HITS CATHOLIC VETS

Claims Separate Organizations Threaten To Disturb Unity of German People

ISSUE NEW CHURCH ORDER

Provides That Students in Higher Schools Need Not Attend Religious Exercises

(Copyright 1935
By the Associated Press)

BERLIN July 23 — Gen Hermann Wilhelm Goering minister of aviation and premier of Prussia today dissolved the Reichsbund (national association) of Catholic war veterans on the grounds that the unity of the German people was disturbed by the existence of separate veterans organizations

The action against the Catholic veterans followed close behind another decree which provided that students in higher schools need not attend religious exercises

Says Unity Threatened

Regarding the war veterans the official decree read

The Prussian premier on the basis of a decree for the protection of the people and the state dated Feb 28 1933 has dissolved the Reichsbund of Catholic front fighters including its sub divisions because the formation of confessional organizations of veterans is calculated solely to lead to the splitting up of the unity of the people (volksgemeinschaft) and to carry confessional divergencies into the federations of veterans

An official order issued by the education ministry proclaimed

For all male and female students of higher schools attendance at morning prayers school worship periods school masses and festivals of a religious character arranged by schools will henceforth be optional regardless of whether these are conducted on workdays or Sundays in schoolhouses or nearby churches

The obligation to participate in these arrangements therefore no longer exists

Various interpretations were placed on the decree—that it might

CLERK IS ACCUSED OF TAX VIOLATION

Miss Anna Nemes Charged With Failure To Collect Levy on Soft Drinks

For allegedly failing to collect one cent tax on sale of two five-cent soft drinks Miss Anna Nemes, 22 clerk at the Farmer's Daughter restaurant at 425 West Center street, was summoned to municipal court this morning for arraignment on a charge of violating state sales tax regulations.

Miss Nemes pleaded not guilty Her hearing date has not been set.

The charge was filed by members of the "flying squadron" of sales tax investigators, Floyd Cornely, Marion county sales tax examiner said. He said two women members of the squadron were in Marion July 18 and bought two soft drinks from Miss Nemes at that time, basing the charge on her alleged failure to collect the tax on the transaction.

Mr. Cornely quoted the investigators as saying they asked the clerk why she did not collect the tax and received an answer that [illegible]

COUNTY WHEAT YIELD AVERAGING 25 BUSHELS

Crop About Nine Bushels An Acre Better Than Last Year, S L. Anderson Reports.

With the cutting of wheat in Marion county virtually completed except for combine harvesting which will be finished in most sections by the middle of the week, reports of wheat yields varying from 15 to 35 bushels an acre and averaging about 24 and 25 bushels an acre are reaching the office of S L. Anderson, county farm agent.

These figures slightly exceed the estimates made by individual farmers while cutting wheat, the light weight of the shocks then causing them to fear the yield would be low, Mr Anderson said.

The average yield of 24 to 25 bushels, all now reported to date for the current wheat harvest is eight to nine bushels an acre higher than the [illegible] yield of [illegible] bushels from [illegible] acres [illegible] year, Mr. Anderson [illegible]

In [illegible] the county's [illegible] for this county was 18.2 bushels

Records show the county normally has a 25 000-acre wheat crop Mr Anderson said he has no basis for making an estimate of the number of acres planted this year, adding that this information will be made available later in official reports

Threshing is well under way throughout the county It is expected to continue well into August before the county's entire crop is threshed

Mr Anderson pointed out weather conditions and control of pests contributed to the above normal yield this year.

COUNCIL VOTES SCHEDULE OF CHARGES HERE

Rate Ordinance Will Go to Company For Rejection or Acceptance

MAYOR WILL SIGN IT

Officials Will Carry Case to Commission if Final Offer Is Refused

City council passed a new gas rate schedule for Marion last night thereby placing the city's third and final rate settlement offer before the Ohio Fuel Gas Co for acceptance or rejection

Under the new rate ordinance adopted unanimously by council although two members voted "under protest" monthly bills of users of 5,000 feet of gas a month will be increased 50 cents

Mayor Clarence A Bolin reported two weeks ago to be planning to veto the new rate ordinance said last night he will approve it today

After hearing Fred W Warner Marion attorney denounce the proposed rate increase along with all utility companies and laws governing their operations Mayor Bolin asserted

Mayor Says He'll Sign It

Personally I feel what Mr Warner said is true However the business interests of the city through W D Brown secretary of the Chamber of Commerce have indicated they favor the new rate Likewise other residents of the city by their silence have shown they approve it I'll sign it

C J Bronson district manager for the Ohio Fuel Gas Co who with F J Gathery attorney for the company attended last night's meeting said he will submit the rate settlement proposal to directors of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co in Columbus immediately He would not make a prediction what their action would be nor could he say when a decision could be expected

E M Tharpe of Columbus vice president and general manager of the Ohio Fuel Gas Co today withheld comment when informed by The Associated Press of Marion council's action He said he wished to study the settlement offer before deciding whether the company would accept

He pointed out the company filed a new rate schedule with the utilities commission about two weeks ago and that engineers of the commission are conducting an investigation of the company's rates in preparation for a report that is expected within 60 or 90 days

Adoption of the ordinance followed a period set aside by council for Marion residents and organizations to express their opinions regarding the proposed new rate which has been before council for final action nearly two weeks The only persons to speak during this period were Fred W Warner speaking as an individual W D Brown secretary of the Chamber and M Smith representing the gas company Council previously had announced that last night was set aside to give residents of the city opportunity to oppose or approve the new rate schedule

New Feeder Line Promised

If the Ohio Fuel Gas Co accepts the rate settlement offer the company is expected to begin work at once on a two-year, $200 000 construction project to connect Marion with a main gas line near Green Camp This Mr Bronson has said, will assure the city an adequate supply of gas, which it has not had in the past and enable the company to meet the demands of present and possible future industrial consumers

Also if the company accepts the proferred rate, Marion will join a long list of Ohio cities that have settled rate differences with the company in the last decade on rate

Give 'em Credit

(Will Rogers Special)

SANTA MONICA, Calif., July 23. — Say, there is some "Rushians" that's taking off today to fly to San Francisco from Moscow. They are a-cutting across and aiming right over the North Pole It's about a 60 to 70-hour non stop flight (One across the Atlantic is about half that long).

If they make it, they're going to just about go to the head of the class in flights Wouldn't it be wonderful if they did finally turn that North Pole into a filling station

If they make it, we want to give em a great welcome not hold anything back just because they might be Bolshevik Rushians

Great achievement is non-political, I believe in giving credit even to a brain trust provided they happen to do something worth while

Yours,
Will Rogers.

Couple Stop Here On Auto Trailer Tour of Country

Mr. and Mrs. A. McVicker of the Green Camp pike had as weekend guests Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Klump of Stockton, Calif., who are seeing the country in an auto trailer which they have named "Our Vagabond Home."

After attending the wedding of their youngest son and the last of their family of four children to establish a home for himself, on Oct. 20 last year, Mr. and Mrs. Klump boarded their motorized home for a trek around the country that will end when they have seen all they want of this broad land.

The couple spent several weeks in southern California and toured the southern states during the spring. For three months they visited in Iowa, Minnesota, Indiana and recently spent some time with Mr. Klump's brother-in-law and sister, Dr. and Mrs. T. G. Coffin in Columbus. From Marion they plan to visit relatives in Canton, O., and Williamsport, Pa., and then move on to Atlantic City and through the New England states. The fall will find them headed for Florida where they plan to spend the winter. They may return to California in the spring.

The portable cottage, including the furnishings and provisions, weighs 3,200 pounds. Airbrakes on the trailer are operated from the car. A few of the comforts of home include screened windows and air ventilators, electric lights, fans, two radios, a three-burner gasoline stove, porcelain sink with a small hand pump which connects with a 25-gallon tank beneath the trailer, a refrigerator, a couch which can be converted into a double bed, full length clothes closet, folding table, two chairs and a cabinet for dishes.

Mr. Klump is a native of the state of Delaware and Mrs. Klump's home was in Iowa. Mr. Klump was a printer at West Liberty, and Davenport, Ia., for a number of years. The family moved to Stockton 20 years ago and until four years ago Mr. Klump was engaged in real estate. He is 63 and his wife is 60. They plan to "settledown" when they "get old," they say.

SHARES IN RELIEF JOBS APPORTIONED

New Program Will Take Many From Rolls in Marion, Surrounding Counties.

Marion and nearby counties are scheduled to share in a huge works relief program that is slated to be started in the very near future, The Associated Press reported in a dispatch from Columbus.

Under the program, it is estimated 413 Marion county men will be given jobs in the near future. Figures for other counties in the district follow: Crawford, 601; Delaware, 201; Hardin, 296; Morrow, 354; Union, 291; Wyandot, 233.

The program is awaiting approval in Washington of 3,000 works relief projects which would provide jobs for nearly half of the Ohioans now on direct relief.

When the projects have been approved, work can be started within three days. The program is expected to have 200,000 relief clients on works progress administration jobs by Sept. 1.

Section of Ohio Statutes Attacked in Action Brought by Marion Woman

A suit [illegible] Ohio [illegible] compensation laws which [illegible] employ[illegible] [illegible] was filed in federal court [illegible] in behalf of a [illegible] Mrs [illegible] [illegible] the case was reported [illegible].

The suit which was filed under [illegible] stors [illegible] of the [illegible] before the [illegible] Dr [illegible] 3 of [illegible] She is administratrix of the estate of the late [illegible] P. Piffer and is Piffer's widow. He formerly was [illegible] the Marion [illegible] Shovel Co. plant according to Paul D. Smith, Marion attorney, who with Dr. T. H. Sutherland and as a Marion attorney and William Clay of Rochester, N. Y., represent Mrs. Piffer.

The petition asks permission to file a supplemental petition in the future for damages of $12,000 against the company. It is alleged in the petition that the death of Piffer in January of this year was the result of silicosis caused by the inhalation of dust. The disease is not one of the 21 listed as an occupational type for which compensation can be received under the state's present compensation laws.

Mr. Smith, who went to Toledo this morning to file the case in federal court, said the principal basis on which the action is filed is that "a wrong without a remedy exists." He explained that Ohio's industrial compensation act prohibits an employe from suing his employer for an industrial injury or disease, making the injured or ill employe seek remedy through the industrial commission. It also, he continued, limits to 21 the diseases that are recognized as being of such a nature that compensation can be allowed, and silicosis is not on the list. "It's a case where a client with an industrial disease case has no remedy at law under the present Ohio laws and constitution," Mr. Smith said.

Mr. Clay is retained in the case because of his experience in successfully handling a somewhat similar case in New York state, Mr. Smith said.

STATUS OF BAST CASE RATHER VAGUE

By The Associated Press

CANTON, O., July 23—Status of the case in municipal court here charging Charles Bast, state representative, with violating the state sales tax law was somewhat vague today.

Briefs attacking the constitutionality of the law and moving to quash the charge were to have been filed in court Saturday. Charles Weintraub, counsel for Bast, today told court attaches Judge Karl Feist told him he could file the briefs sometime this week, the attorney said. Judge Feist then went on his vacation to be gone one month.

DEMOCRATIC CHIEFS DENOUNCED BY FISH

Claims If Roosevelt Is Impeachable House Leaders Are Doubly So.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 23 — Rep. Fish, Republican of New York, said today that if President Roosevelt is impeachable then Democratic leaders in the house of representatives are doubly so.

He accused them of letting the house vote away its constitutional functions until it had no more legislative clothing left than Gandhi.

The statements by Fish recalled the recent declaration by Rep. Snell, Republican of New York, minority leader, that President Roosevelt's activities were approaching impeachable grounds. Snell accused the President of being "inconsiderate" of the constitution.

Another development today was a disclosure by authoritative sources that Republican leaders of the house have been arguing with one of their members seeking to dissuade him from submitting formal impeachment charges against the President to the house. The Republican chiefs declined to name this member.

Rep. Fish, mentioned by some of his colleagues as a possible Republican presidential candidate next year, said:

"I'm not advocating impeachment for the President, but if he is impeachable then the speaker of the house and the Democratic leaders are doubly to blame, doubly responsible and doubly subject to impeachment.

"They have led the house into delegating power after power to the President. The President demanded that the state department have the right to form the nation's tariff policies; he demanded in the $4,880,000,000 work relief bill that he have the right to control the purse strings.

"He got both—powers assigned to congress by the constitution, and the house leaders were responsible."

COURT DELAYS FORECLOSURE

Bucyrus Judge Grants Moratorium in Moose Theater Deal Dispute

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS, July 23 — Defendants in the action seeking the foreclosure of the Moose theater property here have until 9:30 a. m. Monday to file a $15,000 bond and to pay all delinquent and current taxes on the unfinished theater structure if they are to be granted a two year moratorium of the foreclosure.

These provisions with two others are the conditions under which the moratorium was granted Monday afternoon by Judge C. I. Ahl in a three page ruling on a motion asking that a moratorium be granted. The motion was filed by Attorney J. D. Sears, attorney for John Hoover, president of the Hoover Theater Co., last week in an effort to block the sale of the uncompleted theater structure under foreclosure proceedings instigated by the Bucyrus Loan & Building Co.

Hearing on a motion to confirm the sale of the building which was purchased by Schine Brothers Theater Corp. for $50,500 will be held at 9:30 a. m. Monday.

Other conditions cited by Judge Ahl in granting the moratorium provide that defendants pay the cost of advertising the sale and pay the interest in monthly installments to the plaintiff on the amount found due under its petitions and pay monthly installments of interest to each lien holder as soon as there is an adjudication and finding as to the amount due.

In granting the motion the court set forth in the lengthy opinion that the evidence by the plaintiff shows that the uncompleted building is deteriorating in value and during the next year or 18 months would depreciate in value and be rendered useless if permitted to remain unprotected.

The court added further that there was a difference in this case from other moratorium cases in that farm lands were involved in all other cases which did not raise the question of deterioration.

be another attempt to break the hold of parochial schools that it might be an effort to curb religious resentment among youth or that it might be a concession to neo-paganism paving the way for more general teaching of the Germanic religion

The decree anyway was considered to loosen further the traditional German links between the state and schools and religion

Its importance however was deemed to have been made somewhat negative by the developments of the last two years. During that time a slackening has become noticeable in school functions exercises and discipline in religious affairs with the emphasis having been placed on Nazi principles

This decree followed another issued by Wilhelm Frick minister of the interior ordering Catholic and Lutheran confessional youth organizations to cease all mass appearances in public and to discard their uniforms and emblems

The well drilled Nazi press meanwhile fanned the flames of anti-Semitism with allegations of Jewish racial irregularities

Newspapers paid comparatively little attention to the verdicts yesterday convicting Proctor Martin Utsche and Rev Fr Rudolf Wilmsen of violating the law prohibiting removal of gold or foreign exchange from Germany

Utsche was sentenced to four years imprisonment loss of citizenship for five years and was assessed a fine of 5 000 marks

Fr Wilmsen was sentenced to three years imprisonment five years loss of citizenship and was fined 70 000 marks. Authorities confiscated $33 000 worth of bonds and 8 500 marks

Their trials were part of a series involving nuns and monks accused of smuggling out foreign exchange of which the press had made much heretofore

COPIOUS RAIN DISPELS DROUTH HORRORS OF '34

Green Fields and Luscious Pastures Now Contrast to Arid Regions That Necessitated Relief

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON July 23 — A remarkable comeback from 1934's disastrous drouth was reported today by the AAA. Officials said the area previously has recovered from the calamity

A year ago today headlines told of scorched plains damaged crops government purchasing of cattle to prevent them from starving. Now conditions are much better

Thousands of families who depended on government relief for the necessities of life have returned to a self-sustaining basis officials said. In addition the resettlement administration reports that 290 155 farm families have been taken off the relief rolls to be placed in the rural rehabilitation classification

On Feb 1 1935 the government reported the drouth area covered 1 450 counties in 25 states. Now the area has been narrowed to 11 counties in five states—southwestern Kansas eastern Colorado northwestern Oklahoma the Texas panhandle and New Mexico

From June 1 1934 when the cattle buying program of the AAA was begun as a relief measure for drouth areas until Feb 1 1935 the end of the program the government bought 8[illegible]0 000 head of cattle from 696 000 farms in 24 states. Cost of the cattle was $111 541 000 or $13 40 a head

Those cattle found edible were killed and canned with the exception of about 1 000 000 head still held in pastures and ranges

In addition the government bought 3[illegible]700 sheep in the drouth sections for a total cost of $[illegible] 10 152

Abundant rains in the spring good growing conditions and prospects for ample food and feed crops this year have resulted in predictions by AAA officials that there will be no danger of a food or feed shortage this fall and winter. They say the agricultural sections rapidly are approaching normal conditions

Officials of the resettlement administration say the generous crops and improved pastures and ranges which are now indicated will be of considerable help in removing the balance of the nation's farmers from relief rolls. An official predicted that a vastly improved situation will be noted when crops are harvested in the fall those workers who wish to return and anyone else. He emphasized that those who come back to work will be under the same wage and hour scales and with the understanding as to a continuance of an open shop

Smith estimated the strikers and sympathizers have caused more than $15 000 damage to the plant buildings

Meanwhile armed company guards continued to control the inside of the enameling plant. At a Sunday mass meeting of 48 local unions resolutions were adopted protesting hiring of the guards and declaring the general strike would continue until the guards are deported from the county

One Must Lose.

Through making no declaration of intention President Roosevelt does not deny he is counting on a series of major reversals by the supreme court to precipitate the following momentous question as a political issue in 1936: Shall the present structure of government be maintained or shall it be altered to empower the federal government to regulate economic and social life within the states?

This intention on President Roosevelt's part was perceived first after the court's adverse decision on the national recovery act. It was reaffirmed subsequently by passage of the Wagner labor disputes bill, Mr. Roosevelt's recommendation of passage for the Guffey-Snyder coal bill and administration strategy in forcing passage of amendments to the agricultural adjustment act.

Attention given to this curious method of upholding the Constitution while undermining it should not be allowed to obscure another significant fact. President Roosevelt and his new deal leaders are not the only Americans eager for the supreme court to join the issue of federal versus states rights by a series of adverse decisions on recent legislation. There is another group looking to the supreme court, and the group has an entirely different motive.

It is possible that the showdown which President Roosevelt believes would swing favor for the new deal might have a result opposite to the one anticipated. The new deal might lose favor instead. It is at best a gamble. One side must lose because a draw is impossible. President Roosevelt's seeming confidence that the new deal can muster more friends than the Constitution in a pinch must come from sources of optimism not open to the general public.

It May Be Embarrassing

Invaders of a foreign country face many problems—food supplies, civilian hostility, and kindred embarrassments of soldiers in strange and hostile territory.

Thus one paragraph in Emperor Haile Selassie's address to the Ethiopian parliament last week forebodes grave trouble for Italy's African campaign if Premier Mussolini decides to go through with it.

"Our soldiers will follow the example of their warrior ancestors," said the emperor. "Soldiers, traders, peasants, young and old, men and women are united to face the invader. God will be our rampart and our shield. Your sovereign in your midst will not hesitate to spill his blood for the independence of Ethiopia."

It's obvious, of course, that Ethiopia is not prepared to wage war with Italy on Italian terms. It is not equipped to fight with tanks, airplanes, chemicals and gas. It is not even adequately equipped to fight with rifles and machine guns, according to military experts.

Yet Ethiopia has one great advantage. It will be fighting at home. Its soldiers will be reinforced by the civilian population. It will not be a modern war but a war between a modern army and a horde of indignant natives, many of them too ignorant to be afraid of modern soldiers. It may be embarrassing. The invader, instead of needing to defeat an army to be victorious, may discover it is necessary to fight the whole country, and Ethiopia is a bit large for that kind of a campaign.

Let's Have a Serpent

That nameless longing for something strange that's missing this summer probably can be traced to the failure of a sea serpent to turn up so far—and it's almost August.

Scotland, which has been the scene of at least one dandy serpent's exciting activities, is far gone in political speculation. Ireland, which would be an admirable background for the antics of a strange beast, is too busy arming to look for monsters.

Ship captains have grown tired of telling tall stories no one will swallow [illegible] The natives of fishing villages [illegible] be catching anything or seeing anything but the usual run of sardines [illegible]

Even Lake Erie [illegible] enough to support a serpent [illegible] supporting nothing [illegible] but bathing beauties and many who are [illegible] The Ohio river is calm, both seashores [illegible] of even a wandering shark or two and all is placid, too placid. It must be the lull before the storm. Any day now the greatest, longest sea serpent of all time will come swimming into the news and with one swish of its spiked tail will knock a floundering congress right out of the spotlight.

Educating Juvenile Drivers

Judge [illegible] of the [illegible] perplexing phases of [illegible] traffic by [illegible] The [illegible] brought before [illegible] [illegible] [illegible]

A [illegible] which [illegible] may [illegible] and gra[illegible] [illegible] years [illegible] they learn [illegible] will [illegible] safe [illegible] for [illegible] [illegible] of grat[illegible] to [illegible] other juvenile [illegible] in the service he has [illegible]

In the meantime [illegible] a right to do their part in this movement toward less hazardous [illegible] Their respon[illegible] is greater than that of the juvenile court or any other authority [illegible] closer supervision [illegible] the most effective means of keeping the youngsters down to reasonable speed.

Since the cars usually belong to the parents they can also frequently profit substantially by demanding careful driving by their offspring. That means not only fewer wrecked cars but also greater security for the lives and limbs of the youngsters themselves as well as other people on the highways.

If warnings and admonitions are not heeded it might be well for dad and mother to get ahead of Judge Gist by taking the youngsters' driving privileges away before they get into court.

And to make the job complete the parents themselves and other adult motorists can profitably adopt safe and sane driving methods. The charges of recklessness, carelessness and excessive speed can hardly be limited to drivers in their teens. In fact a summary of traffic statistics will disclose that most of the accidents involve drivers of mature age. So it may be that we can't consistently censure juvenile motorists if they let the enthusiasm and thoughtlessness of their years get beyond bounds. The best that can be done probably is for the older folk to keep the youngsters under close supervision and for the older folk to watch their own driving just as carefully.

The Messianic Delusion

President Roosevelt starts his working day by reading certain morning newspapers. Among them is the New York Herald Tribune.

In the Tribune the President reads the political column written by Walter Lippmann, who has earned a place of respect for his careful analyses of political problems.

Thursday morning Mr. Roosevelt read these sentences in the Lippmann column:

"Men who have exercised extraordinary powers almost always find it hard to relinquish them. There is a tendency to feel that having achieved a sensational success by dramatic strokes the result can only be perpetuated by repeating the strokes. A sense of righteousness takes the place of right policy, then indignation takes the place of thorough investigation. Impatience with abuses takes the place of considered action. Before he knows it the messianic delusion has seized the public man. Once that happens it is the beginning of the end for him and for his mandate and for his reforms."

So it is not only congress that needs a vacation because it is tired. The President needs it even more so that he may have the leisure to reexamine his position, to look back over the road he has come, to weigh his achievements and his failures and then to readjust his mind and his spirit to the fact that he has conquered the crisis and must now proceed by the normal methods of American government.

Mr. Lippmann, whose writing is known to have Mr. Roosevelt's attention, has said what many commentators have been saying with varying degrees of emphasis for several months. It is reassuring to know the President has been given an opportunity to study an analysis of his present position by a writer who supported his candidacy in 1932 and has been a helpful critic constantly since the beginning of Mr. Roosevelt's term.

Surprising little eating places are often accidentally chanced upon on less frequented byways. We were a party of four impatient at the stuffiness of one of those elegant cafes called smart and ducked into a prim chintzy place in the East '50s. It was raining and there were only two other diners. A patch of garden in the rear was soaked. We regretted our choice until a savory celery soup came. Two men seemed in charge. One a Swiss and the other North European, likely a Dane. The meal grew in excellence. Meat balls cooked with sweet cream, chopped parsley and onions, rye bread and eggs and called Frikadelle. A Swiss salad of spiced meat and onion relish and a dessert listed as Aeble Sherry Trefle, tasting of macaroons, apples, sherry and a bit of genius. The check was under $1. The proprietor bowed us out as grandly as Oliver in Paris. No liquor is served and I wondered how with such slim patronage it could furnish a living. Yet many such go on while the hot spots often cool.

Returning voyageurs from France report that beer is becoming instead of light wine the national drink. Cognac has almost vanished from the bars of the hard-boiled port of Havre. In Paris the cocktail hour is now chiefly a light refreshment of beer. Frank has a stein trade in the smart room of the Ritz. The sidewalk tables suggest those in the Berlin beer gardens. French brewery stocks are rising by leaps.

The famous Palace corner, so long the parading ground for vaudeville big-offs and headline strutters, is Broadway pompous but there is a different type of peacock. The boasting suspender thumbing actor gives way to the twinkling middle-aged fellows with an over-stressed worldliness. They lean against buildings and appraise you while appearing to read the last edition. Soon they engage you in talk. They are cappers for the floating dice games. And have such names as Arnie, Eddie, Steve and Jack and waft heavy aromas of the barber.

There should be a Guild of Fraidy Cat Letter Droppers. I always park, never just step and go on. In front of one I read the [illegible] gaze at the stamp, glance about furtively and at last confide it slowly, reluctantly and almost mistrustfully to the slot. Often after that I take a few steps and turn back for a final peep. Oh, yes! I usually read the mail man's schedule on the side. It was Thursday, July 23, 1935.

A special newspaper article revealed that eyelash polishing, which was becoming a fad throughout the country, was expected soon to reach Marion.

Chris Firoff returned from a seven months' tour of Europe.

The Marion County Chautauqua opened with a program presented by the Aerian orchestra and character sketches by Miss Jessie Rae Taylor, impersonator.

Dr. James R. Smith was winner in a flag golf tournament played at the Marion Country club preceding a breakfast party planned by the women's social committee of the club. On the committee were Mrs. Howard F. Stoll, chairman, Mrs. T. R. Allen, Mrs. Fred Haberman Jr., Mrs. F. F. Mullin, Mrs. James H. Evans and Mrs. Charles H. Kelly.

Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Kolb of Mound street left for New York City and a visit with relatives in West Point, Bridgeport, Stratford and other points in the east.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 23.—The man behind the Tydings-McCormick sedition bill is Navy Secretary Swanson. He got steamed up recently about the Reds circulating propaganda among his sailors.

You may have noticed that the army does not appear to be equally excited about Reds in its branch of the service. War Secretary Dern wrote a letter approving the bill but this was done at the instance of Mr. Swanson.

The real army slant on the move was given privately by Chief of Staff MacArthur to congressmen. He is supposed to have told them he considered the bill unnecessary if not silly.

It is understood MacArthur, the best soldier in the army, has a way of handling Reds which does not require a law.

Laws

If people knew more about the way laws are made, the statute books would not be as thick as they are.

Most laws originate just where the sedition bill did, in the mind of a person of influence who has an idea to meet a specific situation. Such people, even congressmen, usually can not write laws themselves. That job is turned over to experts in legal verbiage.

When the draftsmen get through with it the congressmen do not always know what the law means. In fact no one knows exactly until the supreme court starts interpreting it and sometimes the members of the court itself disagree.

In this case the draftsmen did not say simply that any one who circulates Communist propaganda in the navy should go to jail. They tried to write a legal definition of subversive influence. The result may apply equally to any sweetheart who writes a letter to a sailor urging him to skip out for a dance. Also it may apply to any newspaper editor publishing interviews with a war department critic like Billy Mitchell.

A fine of $1,000 and two years in jail is provided for anyone thus attempting to influence the apparently uncertain minds of the lads before the mast.

Perplexity

None of the government publicity men has been issuing any statements about the crowd of boatmen who came here the other day from a Great Lakes port. The boatmen told a strange tale, created a problem.

For years about 200 of them have been working for contractors on barges, dredges and heavy machinery clearing river channels and improving harbors. The other day some of them were called in by a contractor who said:

"Boys, I am sorry but on Aug. 1 I've got to lay you all off. I've got a government dredging contract and I have to take my workers from the relief rolls, so I can't use you fellows any more."

The boatmen took up a collection to send [illegible] delegation to Washington [illegible] what [illegible] there was [illegible] which deprives them of their jobs. As this was [illegible] Harry L. Hopkins was at [illegible] trying to find the answer.

Mellowing

Never again [illegible] spoilsman [illegible] appointment of Harold King as commissioner of high[illegible] years of service.

It was [illegible] King [illegible]

When [illegible] commerce [illegible] Roper [illegible] denied by Mr. Roosevelt [illegible] was supposed to be [illegible] planned he is mellowing.

The real explanation appeared to be that the commerce department desires to offset the established impression that it is a spoils center.

Water Treatment

Although the Black lobby investigation committee is meeting in air-cooled offices, the witnesses come from the stand looking as if they had come from a shower bath. The committee has developed an entirely new congressional technique which long has been in use in the courts.

Witnesses are barred from the hearing room. They cannot hear what previous witnesses have said. If the testimony of a man on the stand differs from that of an earlier witness, the first man is recalled and confronted with the contradiction. Discrepancies are then fought out before committeemen who are all good haters of the public utilities.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, July 23—New York conservatives have evolved what seems to them a clinching argument as to why inheritance taxes on large estates would be ruinous—not only to heirs but to cities and inferentially to the nation at large. They only hope it will sound as convincing to Washington.

They figure it out thus: Suppose a taxable inheritance is composed largely of real estate. Many of them are. The only way to pay the tax is to sell a lot of the property. That would mean forced sales at prices well below true value. This in turn would depress other real estate in the city where the sale took place, inviting a general collapse of values. Then what happens to the financial status of the municipality which must depend on property taxes for its principal revenue? And what happens to national recovery if real estate goes into another slump?

This argument will not be sprung publicly unless there is real danger that a specific inheritance tax schedule will be enacted. The boys aren't wasting their ammunition. But at the acute moment Peter Grimm—Secretary Morgenthau's new assistant on real estate matters—will be urged to present the case in the strongest possible terms to his superiors and to key congressional contacts. It's felt that Grimm could get respectful attention. His background entitles him to speak with authority on real estate matters. It also makes him familiar with the brushing aside of identical arguments in Great Britain.

Failed

New York is intrigued by the silver bloc's drive to repeal nationalization of the metal and the heavy tax on profits from silver trading. Some of the boys think it would be just grand to have the same chance to pick up easy money as the European speculators.

But insiders doubt that Senator McCarran and his friends will get very far. Secretary Morgenthau is opposed to any alterations in the existing silver legislation and what he says goes at the White House.

Administration resistance might be overcome if the farm bloc would join up with the silverites—but they won't. A while back it seemed as if these two groups might get together, but [illegible] between them [illegible] The campaign to sell senators from the wheat, cotton and corn belts the idea that higher silver would cure all their constituents' ailments failed [illegible]

Trend

Examiner Irving L. Koch's report to the Interstate Commerce Commission [illegible] passenger fare of two cents a mile was received with an almost [illegible] the eastern railroads. The only [illegible] was Baltimore & Ohio. The other roads [illegible] B. & O. [illegible]

New York railroaders [illegible] with Mr. Koch's assertion that the passenger market of the future looks [illegible] as at any time in the history of the country. They claim that would be true if someone made a bonfire of all private autos, buses and planes. And they insist that the additional passengers they would get by fare cutting wouldn't add enough to their revenue to buy a second-hand flat car. Any attempt by the I. C. C. to force lower fares will be resisted furiously.

The suggestion was offered at recent directors' meetings of two leading western railroads that passenger service be discontinued entirely. It sounds like a joke—but it wasn't meant that way. Obviously nothing so drastic is likely in the near future—but the idea represents a significant trend of thought among rail managements.

Rails

Southern Pacific heads are hotter than a firecracker over the premature publication of their plan to retire RFC [illegible] debt with a bank loan. Only a few bankers and officials knew of the plan. S. P.'s director had never even been told about it—nor had the executive committee. The leak was highly embarrassing to the management and it's looking for the culprit with blood in its eye.

The published reports—in addition to being premature—were a long way from correct in detail. No definite program has yet been adopted—or even worked out—but you can paste it in your hat that it will be vastly different in its official form from the one which got into news channels.

Southern Pacific isn't the only road that would like to get out of hock to the RFC. There's an excellent reason. Jesse Jones' whole policy on rail loans has changed in the past few months. Such advances were originally made for a period of years but now they are being renewed practically on a call loan basis. The RFC can demand repayment on thirty days' notice at any time. That puts the borrowing roads on a tough spot. If they are called and can't pay Mr. Jones is empowered to take them over.

Welcomes

The more conservatives think about the cultivation of closer relations between the American and Mexican Federations of Labor the more worried they get. The Mexican outfit is ranked just a shade short of Red and Luis Morones—who represented the Mexicans in parleys with American labor leaders—is called a triple distilled radical.

Nor is the idea of a Pan American labor hook-up—broached by Bill Green—any more appealing. The unions in Argentina and Chile are very strong and decidedly left wing.

A New Yorker with extensive Latin contacts wonders what's in Bill Green's mind. He fights the recognition of Russia and tries to kick the communists out of his organization—and then welcomes fellows just as subversive with a fraternal embrace.

SWIGER EXECUTED; SAYS HE'LL BE BACK

Prays for Radio Entertainer He Intended To Wed Before Going to Chair.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., July 23—Russell Swiger, 21-year-old robber-slayer, died last night in Ohio penitentiary's electric chair muttering "I am now ready, but I will come back."

Before he stepped into the chair, Swiger prayed for Miss Grace Mitchell, Pittsburgh radio entertainer. He was convicted of shooting and killing Harold Fleming, 19, Zanesville filling station attendant, Sept. 24, 1934, to obtain $14 to finance a trip to see her.

He also asked God to aid Gov. Davey, who refused him clemency, Warden Woodard and his guards and to have mercy on the judge and jury.

For eight minutes, after reaching the death house, Swiger knelt in front of the electric chair praying that "a great miracle will be worked here tonight. I believe I will come back in the same body and soul to greet you men."

The sullen-faced youth died calmly.

Swiger pleaded guilty at his second trial to the slaying, but a few days ago retracted the confession. He contended he made damaging statements about himself to save Miss Mitchell from being arrested.

"God save my girl in Pittsburgh," he prayed as guards prepared to place him in the chair. "She sent me a telegram today saying she was praying for me."

Miss Mitchell was the principal witness in the youth's second trial. She testified she had no intention of marying him, although he appeared infatuated with her.

A jury disagreed in the first trial. At both trials defense counsel admitted Swiger killed Fleming. However, they based their defense on a contention that the slayer had only the mentality of a 12-year-old child.

The supreme court granted Swiger a stay of execution before he was to die April 5, but later rejected his appeal. Then Gov. Davey gave him a 60-day reprieve which expired yesterday.

NATURE STUDY CLASS TO OPEN

County Emergency Schools To Conduct Class Under Direction of M. L. Verburg.

Preparations are under way to offer a course in nature study to residents of Marion city and county under the supervision of the Marion county emergency school administration, Carl L. Lister, emergency school supervisor, announced today. Martin L. Verburg of 389 Pearl street has been employed as instructor, Mr. Lister said.

The course will offer an opportunity for those interested in nature study to learn more about the trees, flowers, shrubs, flowers, birds and insects which inhabit Marion county. It will include class study, laboratory work and field trips around the county.

Classes will probably start Friday of this week, Mr. Lister said. The first few meetings will be held at the Y. M. C. A. to arrange hours and schedules of labratory work and field trips. The hours will be arranged to the convenience of those taking the course after the registration is completed, Mr. Lister said.

No charge will be made either for the registration or for participation in the classes. All necessary equipment and supplies will be furnished the students free of charge. The class rooms in the Y. M. C. A. have been made available to the emergency school through the cooperation of Earl N. Hale, secretary.

In the beginning the course will be limited to adults above the age of 16. Any class with an enrollment of 10 or more adults may enroll students under 16 until the opening of the regular city and parochial school terms in September, at which time the younger students will be asked to withdraw.

Registration blanks for the course may be secured and registration made with Mr. Lister at the office of D. T. Mills, superintendent of the Marion county schools suite No. 1 in the Leetonia building at 187 West Center street. Mr. Lister urges those who plan to take the course to enroll as soon as possible.

Ivy Poisoning.

It is at this season of the year, when people spend more time in the open fields and woods, that ivy poisoning is so prevalent. If you have ever been the victim of this experience you will agree with me that precautions against contracting this annoying affliction are well worth the trouble.

Some persons are very susceptible to this form of poisoning. It is believed that the possibility of attack increases with persons who have been badly poisoned. The common way of infection is by direct contact of the skin with some part of the poison ivy plant.

But it has been known to occur after handling tools, clothing or other objects that carry the pollen of the poisonous plant. Even touching a stone or tree from which the ivy vine has been broken away is not without danger of contracting the poisoning.

There are two poisonous plants: poison or rhus toxicodendron, and poison sumac or rhus venenata. As a rule, the poisonous plant trails over the ground and covers a considerable area, but rarely exceeding more than a few inches in height.

It is a good plan to be familiar with the appearance of this plant so that it may be carefully avoided. Rhus toxicodendron or poison ivy plant is easy to recognize because its leaflets are arranged in groups of three, with the stem of the middle leaf longer than the other two. Sometimes it is mistaken for the harmless woodbine plant which has five leaflets.

[illegible] the poisonous element of these plants varies, identical symptoms are produced. The poisonous [illegible] is found only in the sap but this is contained in practically all parts of the plant. For this reason it is well to remember that no [illegible] can be made between the poisonous properties of the [illegible] stem and leaf.

The victim of poison ivy first complains of a moderate itching or burning sensation of the skin. Small blisters form. The skin becomes red and swollen. The swelling may be so severe as to entirely distort the appearance of the sufferer.

Mild cases of this poisoning run a short course and as soon as the blisters rupture the skin returns to normal. In the more severe [illegible] the blisters appear in greater number, and there are severe swelling and redness of the underlying skin. The symptoms of itching, burning heat, as well as extreme sensitivity, becomes almost unbearable. At this stage it is accompanied by fever as high as 104 degrees. Marked prostration may follow.

There are many methods of treatment used for ivy poisoning. Some are beneficial, while others are of little value. In all instances it is wise to relieve the inflammation and soothe the skin. This is best accomplished by taking a warm bath and scrubbing the body with an alkaline soap. The body should then be sponged with alcohol or gasoline. A soothing ointment or lotion, such as zinc oxide or calomine lotion, should be applied to the irritated blisters.

Answers to Health Queries

D. L. S. Q.—What would cause the fingers to swell, becoming very red and tender? These red spots dry up the skin and become thick and hard, gradually peeling off leaving a new skin. The spots sometimes contain water which dries and leaves the skin hard and dry. There is no festering. The spots sometimes appear under the nails and along the edges of the nail.

A.—This may be due to a form of eczema. Watch your diet and elimination. For full particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

ITALY REDUCES GOLD COVERAGE BY DECREE

Bonds Drop and Stocks Rise but Lira Firm on Domestic Market

By The Associated Press

ROME July 23—Italian government bonds fell sharply and common stocks rose buoyantly today as the stock exchange reacted to a royal decree permitting the government to lower the legal limit of gold coverage for currency obligations fixed at 40 per cent in 1927

The lira held firm on the domestic market losing only one centime

Consolidated bonds which form the majority of the public debt fell off one point to 66—which is to be compared to the quotation of 86 when the Italo Ethiopian dispute began

Treasury bonds dropped an average of one point each

Industrial and other stocks enjoyed rises ranging around 4 to 6 points Metal and war equipment stocks were in particular demand Fiat motors rose 6 points

Banking circles agreed that Italy still was formally on the gold standard

Some said the new decree might even have a salutary effect on the lira since it would release several billion lire in gold if necessary for purchases abroad The use of gold it was said would absorb the lira abroad and thus prevent speculation

a ... hero ... and Laurie from Castle ... Laurie are had told him ... ed because that Rex ... Laurie is she will ... The dif Rex and Al Laurie and ... from ... was on ... a day ... put ... week ... someone he ... voice ... when ... his maps as Laurie's was ... You cer ... the time we finished ... stayed an awfully ... strong which ... to run ... way you

I don't know what you mean I can't refuse to work late when it is important It's my job Mr Albery offers to pay me over time but I won't take it He has done enough for me—and for you

I'm not suggesting that he should pay for your company You haven't got so far as that I suppose he retorted sharply with a leery glance from narrowed eyes I merely wondered whether it was necessary for you to dine with him

You are insulting

I am only suggesting that under the circumstances it would be wise for a little while not to be seen about so much with Albery I don't like the idea of my wife being talked about as a girl secretary her employer has taken a fancy to

Laurie went crimson

How dare you? What business is it of yours anyhow? I'm not your wife

You are supposed to be You are living here with me As far as anybody knows we are a normal couple Of course it is no business of mine

I'd no idea you paid so much attention to appearances She was quivering with indignation

I don't like looking a fool he answered brutally And while you are supposed to be my wife I'd rather you didn't get talked about

I know who's been talking she flashed Mrs Steele She was at the Poma the other day when I was lunching with Mr Albery to take some notes from him when he was only up for an hour or two I saw her watching me Of course she's jealous because she's crazy about you and she thinks I am really your wife

It was the man's turn to grow red in the face Laurie had hit the mark Wanda Steele had suggested to him very delicately that his dear little wife was perhaps being a trifle indiscreet

I'm sick of it Laurie went on at white heat I'm going to quit tomorrow You can say I left you—or anything else you like

* * *

But the next day there was another turn to their affairs

Rex Moore spent the morning with Albery at Fen Grellton and came back late in the afternoon to find Laurie packing her books

You can stop that he said I'm off again You'll be rid of me for a week or two Albery wants me to try to lower the Atlantic record for the double crossing He has heard that Bruce Morris is preparing secretly to make the flight and he wants me to get in first He says the Pacific can wait

He was elated He was going to unfold his wings again He was good humored almost friendly

You don't need to turn out do you? he added with a touch of compunction in his voice I'm sorry I ragged you yesterday

She looked at him steadily

You mean it would look bad if I left the flat? That it would be damaging to you?

You might wait until I come back—that's all I mean He looked at her in the shamefaced way he had when he askd her to do anything rather like a small boy who knows he is in the wrong After all I can't annoy you when I'm not here

All right she said Her voice was forbidding because she had to hide a little tremor in it When do you start?

Tomorrow night — for Ireland The weather looks as it if will hold

Laurie turned away putting her books back on the shelves from which she had taken them

His spirit was already in the air He was not thinking of her

Rex Moore did not come back to the flat the next day until it was almost time for him to start All day long he had been making his preparations at Albery's private air field

He found a tempting meal laid on the dining room table but Laurie was not in the room She came out of the bed room when he [illegible] have [illegible] he was going [illegible] Mrs Biddy's [illegible] things myself [illegible] like her [illegible]

When Mrs [illegible] she [illegible] how [illegible] she'd appeared into the kitchen

* * *

When she came back with the dishes on the tray Rex had changed into his flying [illegible]

I [illegible] have [illegible] me he said [illegible] I can do a that myself

That's [illegible] she [illegible] Now please sit down and eat

She poured him out a cup of coffee with the thick cream he liked on the top

She ate very little herself When he had finished the eggs she offered him fruit and a special high sponge cake that she had made

They hardly spoke Laurie seemed to have something on her mind

Is it dangerous — this Atlantic flight? she said at last

He laughed

What ever put this into your head

All long distance flights must be dangerous

Do you know the most dangerous occupation in the world? he asked with the mocking smile at the back of his eyes The one with the greatest percentage of casualties? A plate layer on a railway

4 (LAST)—CH 29—TIES

But Laurie was looking at him with a curious concentration

Rex you're not using this new fuel are you? she asked

What on earth do you know about that? he countered

I've had to do a lot of work in connection with it for Mr Albery It isn't safe is it

He looked startled

Has Albery talked to you about it? Why didn't you tell me before?

Because I know it's a secret Mr Albery asked me not to talk about it He asked me if you had told me anything and I told him that you never discussed your profession with me But I just wanted to know

Of course I'm not using it The tests aren't nearly satisfactory yet What a funny girl you are I say I shall have to get a move on Albery's car is coming to take me to the airfield He's coming with me I suppose you wouldn't like to come?

Oh no Laurie said sharply

They got up and Rex Moore went to fetch his flying coat and helmet

He found Laurie standing in the dining room just where he had left her She turned a white face to him

I'm sure it's dangerous he said under her breath

Why do you harp on that Laurie? he asked and then there came a reaction so violent that his tanned face actually turned pale I don't understand he said slowly It can't be that you care? I mean what becomes of me? You hate me don't you for coming back and messing up your life?

Yes I hate you she said hysterically

Tomorrow confessions are in order

For Wednesday July 24

ACCORDING TO the rather weak influences of the lunar aspects this may be a day in which the ascendency of purely individual initiative and energy may be expected to hold dominant sway over all the activities All is left to the free operation of native acumen and resourcefulness However by mutual aspect there is a benign influence urging the making of new contracts and agreements Also there may be benefit from successful litigation Writings may thrive

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves confronted by a year in which their own sweet will may hold dominant sway There will be no instigation or urge from planetary intervention excepting that a benignant ray will assist litigation favor all pertaining to writings and publishings and foster new contracts

A child born on this day may be versatile efficient and ambitious and should succeed in law publishing literature and business Personal popularity will assist it in its enterprises

Mary Nearly Swoons As Leslie Sings From Tree

I HAVE never heard anything sweeter or more exciting than the sound of that golden tenor voice singing a cafe chantant which floated in through the nursery windows as with Junior and Roderick close to me I came through the door

My [illegible] aunt and her mother in law Katherine [illegible] as [illegible] in her arms [illegible] whimpering and tipped her baby head toward the sound A lullaby from the orchard Only I don't think—really—that tune was meant for a lullaby

I recognized at once what she was doing She was giving Mary a chance to pull herself together if she could For Katherine had seen as I had that this sudden incomprehensible spurt of song from the orchard had shaken Mary terribly

Mary Frightened

But Katherine's helpful thought was of no avail Mary's pallor [illegible] could not rally her faculties With trembling hands she reached to me like those of a frightened bird turning to its mother with frantic eyes searching mine she took one or two stumbling steps to meet her and slumped against me in what I feared was a swoon

Oh Oh Mary her small brother Roderick wailed and Junior echoed his cry as they rushed toward me

Is she dead? Roderick cried frantically Katherine who with Faith still in her arms had crossed immediately to look at the stricken girl answered him sharply

No she isn't dead and if you want to help her you must do just as I say Come with me both of you at once Just hold her Madge as you are till I come back

With swift steps she went into the bedroom of the nursery suite Roderick and Junior close at her heels She reappeared almost instantly alone and bearing a tray with a pitcher of water a glass smelling salts and a small bottle of an aromatic stimulant

Katherine Helps

She set the tray down on a table near me and coming close slipped her hand under Mary's head and looked closely at her The door had closed softly behind her— I guessed under the frightened but obedient fingers of the small boys—but she spoke as softly as if she were afraid of their hearing her

She hasn't actually fainted she said but she's so nearly out that it isn't funny Hold her just that way against you until I roll the couch close to you

It was the work of a half minute for her to roll the couch close beside me and wedge it with chairs so that the casters would not slip Then she came to my side and slid practiced arms under Mary's slender figure

Take her feet she said and knowing from experience just what she wished I obeyed her In a few seconds we had Mary stretched out on the couch Katherine felt her pulse lifted her eye lids and then taking the smelling salts waved them gently beneath the girl's nostrils I comprehended that she did not wish to startle Mary by dashing water in her face and her wisdom was justified when Mary stirred and opened her eyes

Didn't Faint

I didn't—really—faint she said haltingly I could hear what you said but I couldn't make a sound

While she was speaking Katherine with quick deft fingers dropped some of the aromatic spirits into a little water and held the glass to Mary's lips

Don't try to talk she said Drink this

Over Mary's head her lips moved soundlessly and I caught their message Close the windows I moved swiftly to obey realizing as Katherine had that Mary's ears were still too sluggish to catch the continued sound of that golden tenor voice still sounding from the orchard and of the voices of the men who were hurling objurgations and commands at him

Where could he be? I wondered that with his voice so close to them the trained trackers of men who were on his trail could not find him and silence that apparently gay little song which to my imaginative ears held such undertones of mockery and venom

Then just before I slipped the catch on the second window I heard one of the troopers say imperatively

No shooting And we might as well wait till daylight to get him down Don't you think so Mr Graham? He can't get away and he isn't armed We frisked him and—

D[illegible]'s reply was lost as I closed the window But the notes of the song though muffled still came to my ears and I knew the answer to my unspoken question

The man still singing had climbed a tree and was singing from there It was impossible to shut out the sound When would Mary—?

My husband's young niece jerked convulsively as her temporarily dulled ears regained their acuteness and she again heard the song

Oh Oh Auntie Madge she exclaimed Don't you hear? It's Jack Leslie

The Road to Fame

It will cost New York City $1[illegible]000 the remainder of this year to conduct an investigation of rackets. Thomas E. Dewey, the young special prosecutor who will direct the investigation, feels sure nothing less than that would be adequate. Next year a larger sum will be requested.

The appropriation has been made and the digging will start as soon as Mr. Dewey finds the men he wants. Though he has more than 2000 applications for jobs from lawyers he declares there is a scarcity of capable investigators and trial advocates.

One objection made to the $122,000 appropriation is interesting. "It seems to me," asserted a member of the board of estimates, "that most of these investigations are used by ambitious young men as a vehicle to attach themselves to the public payroll. I predict that this young Mr. Dewey will select his staff completely from the Fusion ranks and that most of these dollar a year patriots will endeavor to become payroll patriots."

The gentleman seems to be perfectly right but what of it? Politics is politics whether played by Tammany Hall or a Fusion party supporting a reform administration. In politics there is just one way for young men to climb to the top and that way is to get a foothold. Young Mr. Dewey is on his way. Racketeering in New York City will be investigated and in a few more years it will be investigated again by some other lucky fellow. In the meantime Mr. Dewey will become a famous public official. It may be both silly and expensive but that's the way it is.

An Italian Custom?

Premier Benito Mussolini is one of the smartest of men, no doubt of it. Any man who can be president and all the vice presidents of a corporation like modern Italy must be able to think twice as fast and three times as well as the average.

One of the ways the premier shows his brightness is by dramatizing his job. No soft-handed swivel chair executive he, but by a few horsepowers of energy and the daring of an automobile racer, a motorcycle daredevil and an airplane stunt pilot. It's great stuff. Italy eats it up and the export trade is impressed too.

A couple of times a year United States newspapers give their readers a glimpse of the dynamic dictator in an agricultural role. The latest shows him waist deep in a grain threshing scene and—of all things—bare to the waist.

As we were saying Benito Mussolini's one of the smartest of men. But in this country threshing hands keep their shirts on when the chaff is flying. It wouldn't look so good in a picture maybe but it saves scratching. Chaff and perspiration make a pasty mixture. [illegible] that explains the premier's recent belligerency.

The Idaho Giant

The why and how of Sen. Borah's threat to hold congress in session till Nov. 1 make an interesting tale of deep and dark political strategy. The plot though complex is clear.

Sen. Borah though too old to take himself seriously as a presidential candidate obviously is trying to get control of enough electoral votes to influence selection of the Republican candidate.

The senator's actual and potential strength lies in the farm belt whose votes swing nominations and elections. He has selected therefore a farm [illegible] issue for his purpose.

The issue is the Frazier-Lemke farm mortgage refinancing plan which provides for government refinancing of existing farm indebtedness at [illegible] per cent interest. The plan calls for issuance of several billion dollars of [illegible] notes secured by farm[illegible]

[illegible] Sen. Borah has solicited the support of a [illegible] large group of voters by espousing the issue of the Patman bonus bill which [illegible]

He [illegible] to administration [illegible] their [illegible] of the administration bills. Th[illegible] to prevent the congressional session [illegible] until the first of November.

President Roosevelt it is known would veto both the Frazier-Lemke measure and the Patman bill. Democratic leaders are anxious to avoid a veto because it would alienate voters. Sen. Borah is anxious to force a veto for the same reason. He would be able to capitalize on bad feeling against Mr. Roosevelt to make [illegible] personal influence in the next Republican convention stronger. [illegible] the Republican party [illegible] of the Borah program [illegible] the most [illegible] at large [illegible] has been [illegible] party [illegible] the other party [illegible] for [illegible] of [illegible] democracy remains [illegible]

$2.50 a Day

It is unfair to condemn the relief system because some of its beneficiaries take [illegible] advantage of it. It also is unwise to assume the system is defensible in every detail. There is less cause for criticism than most arbitrary critics admit but there is nevertheless [illegible] a degree of wrong.

In Minnesota a bumper wheat crop is ready for harvesting. In former years the harvest season brought to Minnesota a migration of harvest hands who worked in the fields and moved on to another region when the harvest was over. The pay never was large, the work was hard and the living [illegible] but that was the system.

This year according to the Associated Press harvest jobs in Minnesota are going begging despite large numbers of unemployed on relief rolls. The migration of former years apparently has been stopped by the relief system. Laborers are reluctant to be exploited when they can draw money from government.

Possibly there is nothing wrong about it. The decision depends on the viewpoint. Yet when $2.50 a day for shocking wheat is turned down for a place on the relief rolls while a vast region's wheat crop hangs in the balance something is wrong from a practical viewpoint. Men who refuse jobs must be dealt with realistically. A hard thing to do unless it is admitted honestly that relief itself constitutes a social problem only slightly less serious than unemployment which makes relief necessary.

Building An Opposition

Jews in Germany are a small minority concentrated in the Berlin region. Catholics are a larger minority. War veterans also are a larger minority.

Nazi policy which has caused relentless persecution of Jews has been extended to Catholics and the Steel Helmet group of war veterans. Thus the three minorities are brought into a coalition of opposition.

Dictators don't need to worry much about opposition even though it approaches majority proportions so long as they have the army on their side. Nevertheless Reichsfuehrer Hitler's deliberate development of opposition in the form of minorities which hate him with more than merely ordinary political zeal indicates he is either a very strong dictator with nothing to fear or a very foolish one who doesn't see the possibilities of reaction from a policy of persecution that takes in too much territory.

Ouch

Luigi Pirandello, Italian dramatist, story teller and apparently practical philosopher has a theory about Ethiopia which he thinks should be interesting to Americans. It seems significant that his eyes twinkled when he expounded it to ship news reporters last Saturday.

"For more than 50 years," he explained, "Italy has consistently tried to open to civilization the closed feudal world of the Ethiopian highlands. All peaceful efforts have been nullified by the persistent hostility of Abyssinian chieftains who are only interested in continuing by brute force and under terrifying slavery conditions their domination of the Abyssinian people.

"By their bold and tenacious efforts for more than a century the American people have conquered a whole continent and made it a home for the prolific work of the white race. I am sure they cannot withhold their sympathetic feelings for the Italian people determined to call to civilization the last African regions where slavery is still openly and shamefully perpetuated."

Then twisting the knife a little as it were Mr. Pirandello compared Italy's attitude toward Ethiopia with early American settlers' treatment of the Indians a few centuries ago. Isn't it somewhat strange that a man famous for fantasy should be one of the first to remind the United States that it too is not innocent of the ambitions [illegible] Italy now [illegible] When [illegible] territory under civilization's banner as they always do freedom becomes relatively unimportant except to the [illegible] and the jealous rivals of the invader [illegible] make room for the United States, the conscientious upholders of idealism in international relations.

Harry P. Burt[illegible] as [illegible] for the Cosmopolitan magazine is the most self effacing of the big money editors. He is rarely seen in haunts of the literati at the theater or night clubs. A thin wiry fellow with sparkling eyes he is a whip-lash of energy. Writers see him only in his office. Every night he takes home a bundle of manuscripts and fairly devours them, being trained to grasp the import of an entire page almost at a glance. He began his career as a star reporter in Cleveland, was later a New York correspondent and editor of McCall's. He is a brother of Beatrice Burton Morgan the fiction writer. Among those he has given the first big writing chance are Temple Bailey and Lloyd Douglas, now best sellers.

Before Harry Leon Wilson retired to Carmel and when an editorial writer on Puck he launched a defense of the bicycle of all things. A Woman's Rescue League was formed to choke off feminine cycling. The league yowled that 75 per cent of the immorality of the nation was due to this vice and the wheel was characterized as "the Devil's Advance Agent." The contention was made quite seriously that the majority of fallen women were recruited from cyclists. Manufacturers were greatly worried by the campaign. Press agents were hired to help stem the opposition.

The old orchid pink Murray Hill hotel has reestablished its famous horse shoe bar. It is bigger than the original around which stood many notables. Grover Cleveland quaffed a thin rye there on news of his election to the presidency. P. T. Barnum also used to drop in with his cronies and order a treat for the house. Mark Twain was an occasional dropper-in for a Bourbon toddy. Also the elder J. P. Morgan for a Napoleon brandy and many other figures of the Elegant Eighties.

Likely the biggest mop-up among the press agents in several years has been that of Frances Albertanti. He [illegible] all the champion Jim Braddock's ghost writing when that fighter seemed the forlornest of hopes. Braddock was a natural for the sob strain which is Albertanti's metier and he was able to pull all the tremolo stops. His cut will run around $30,000. Albertanti is an East Side boy with a flair for picturesque lingo. He thought up exploiting Chuck Connors as the Mayor of Chinatown, suggesting his many but one coster coat and bowler etc. Connors was just an ordinary busker along the Broadway curbs before that.

Behind The News In

Washington And Wall Street

BY PAUL MALLON

WASHINGTON, July 24 — All you have heard about the troubles of the Hopkins relief administration is only half the story. Problems and counter problems are piling up so rapidly that some top men associated with the endeavor are beginning to get discouraged. They wonder whether they will ever get the thing straightened out. For instance Gen. Johnson has been receiving a liberal education in amazing situations other than boondoggling since he started out to show how relief should be administered in New York.

Those near to him are complaining about the difficulty of getting relief workers to accept a security wage when other workers down the street are getting prevailing (mostly union) wages on government contract projects. They whisper that on Aug. 1 Johnson must order wage cuts for his clerical staff reducing them to a security wage. There is some fear that this may lead to strike in the strangest of all places—the relief headquarters.

Note—An inside estimate is that Mayor LaGuardia has about 22,000 administering relief in New York City.

Choice

The Hopkins headquarters here has been frantically accepting and rejecting new ideas for getting rid of relief money since the original program had to be thrown out. A novel road building scheme is one of the latest favored plans. You may hear of it soon.

The scheme is to set aside a large sum (close to half a billion dollars) for construction of farm to market roads. This construction would be done directly by the government. (A security wage would be paid.)

It has nothing to do with the original $400,000,000 already allotted for road building under private contracts in which the states cooperate. Nor would it interfere apparently with an additional $400,000,000 which may be allocated for a similar purpose later. (On these projects a prevailing wage is paid.)

Apparently this relief business is narrowing down to a choice of road building and boondoggling or boondoggling and road building. If you add up the choices the complex question of security and prevailing wage you will see that the trouble has only started!

Ax

The Yankee traders at the state department wheedled that Soviet buying promise out of Commissar Litvinoff by gently holding an ax over his head. Whether the promise amounts to much or not here is the way it came about.

State Secretary Hull and Ambassador Bullitt in Moscow got their minds together on the [illegible] and decided the Soviet would have to give something to get the tariff concessions which they expected to get free. The trade law provides that all nations which do not discriminate against us must receive the trade [illegible] which we specifically give to other countries. In April President Roosevelt signed an executive order [illegible] the Soviets [illegible] inating against [illegible]. The Reds expected to take advantage of the 50 per cent [illegible]

Threat

[illegible] a sacrifice received.

When made the promise even stranger was the fact that it did not touch the two most important issues between Moscow and Washington (a) Credits and (b) the czarist debt. Those in close touch with the situation now expect it to work out this way. The Soviets undoubtedly will buy what Litvinoff promised, develop trade relations and yearn for credit. When that relationship is established an arrangement probably will be worked out for something like a 20 year loan to finance the debts and credits.

BY JAMES McMULLIN

NEW YORK, July 24—New York sharps are puzzled by the zeal with which both New Dealers and their opponents hail the idea of supreme court showdowns on such key New Deal issues as the AAA, TVA, Wagner act, holding company bill etc. They figure of course that Mr. Roosevelt and his aides hope to line up popular support for a constitutional amendment broadening federal powers if the court gives their program the bum's rush. But conservatives are just as confident that judicial nullification of the New Deal would be grapes in their basket. They are firmly convinced that the public would turn down a leader whose policies were emphatically repudiated by the respected nine who traditionally stand above politics.

One or the other camp must be wrong—but which? Keen observers believe this will depend on how the decisions are rendered. They dope it that a series of court defeats by the split vote would work to the President's advantage. He could bolster his case by citing the dissenting opinions of a liberal minority.

But if all decisions go against the New Deal by a unanimous vote the right wingers are expected to benefit—on the theory of a public reaction that all nine learned justices can't be wrong. If the rulings are mixed—some pro New Deal and some against, some unanimous and some split—the impression will be confused and neither side will get much political [illegible]. So the supreme court is likely to play a role of double importance in next year's election. [illegible] party tactics may depend alike on the manner of the rulings and on their nature.

Farmers

Wall Street in general gloated over the Boston court of appeals decision against the AAA processing tax. But the shrewdest conservative sources are not so sure they have any cause to cheer.

NRA had outlived its usefulness and was virtually unmourned at its death. That wouldn't be true of AAA. Too many farmers are collecting benefit payments from processing taxes. They might get good and sore if the [illegible] action and become actively militant in the New Deal cause as a result.

That would be no help to plans of a conservative comeback. They know [illegible] unless they can recapture a large percentage of the farm vote.

Costs

Finished

New York [illegible] say that Italy's position leaves plenty to be desired [illegible] to win in Ethiopia [illegible] three important items of military success—[illegible] and credit. Mussolini has been angling desperately for a loan in England as well as the United States but he can't get a nibble. He has been offered concessions on Abyssinian resources—when as and if captured—and not a single banker rises to the bait. That shows both what they think of his chance and of Ethiopia's vaunted natural wealth.

As a matter of fact several American concerns have been invited at various times before now to take over Abyssinian concessions. In each case they have declined the opportunity after surveying the prospects. So maybe Il Duce is kidding himself about the pot of gold at the end of the Ethiopian rainbow.

Two of the best posted financial sources in the world—one American and one British—have privately predicted to New York friends (without consulting each other) that [illegible] lose or draw his war—M[illegible] is finished.

History

Informed sources predict that Premier Laval's effort to solve France's fiscal woes by aggressive deflation will only hasten the fall of his government and an open and possibly bloody clash between French fascists and left wingers.

[illegible] experience shows that a program of heavy taxes and wage cuts is certain to foster acute discontent. So far it has been kept under cover in Italy—but even the mighty Mussolini was forced to [illegible] the Abyssinian diversion to keep the country's thoughts off its troubles and the young men busy. The French aren't likely to be as patient as their neighbors and when they explode they aren't polite about it. The fascists are watching for an opening and the leftists are equally alert to head them off. [illegible] that in [illegible] France will make some vital history within a year.

Over

The investment appetite for bonds [illegible] insatiable that [illegible] prophesy it won't be long before some new industrial preferred stock issues peep out around the corner. If the [illegible] even bitter [illegible] depression [illegible] financial circles.

The fast improving cellar dwelling Salem softball team rose up yesterday afternoon at the Steam Shovel field to upset the Forest Lawn apple cart and send the Epworth Bishops back into the No 2 Church league lead.

[illegible] Chuck Reese was the gentleman largely responsible for the downfall of the league leaders. His single in the eighth inning drove in Jack Dillinger with the winning run. He started a rally in the fourth inning which did not end until he had crossed the plate with No 2 run for his team. His play in the field ranked as high as his hitting.

Five Hits Apiece

Both Millisor and Maynard Snyder allowed five hits. Riley tripled in the last of the seventh scoring Melvin with the tieing run. Forest Lawn grabbed a two-run lead in the first inning when Roy Convers drove in a pair with a timely hit. An error and two hits gave the losers their third tally in the fourth. Salem scored a run in the second on no hits and one in the fourth on two blows. Snyder had a slight edge in pitching scoring 14 strikeouts.

The Epworth Bishops took a close but slow game at Lincoln park from the Oakland team 4 to 3. The Methodists scored three runs in the last half of the first on three hits and a walk. Two hits mixed with three free tickets by Primmer to give Oakland two runs in the third. Both teams played nearly air-tight ball after the first two innings.

Oakland evened the score at 3 all in the first half of the fifth as Harold Buckley got his third hit and came home on Vermillion's double. Primmer, Bishop moundsman, crossed the plate with the winning run in the second part of the same frame. He singled, stole second and came home on Eddie Mautz hit to center field.

Will Play Again

The Bishop regained the half game lead they had over the Forest Lawn team before the latter handed the Methodists their third setback last week. Both teams are scheduled to play tomorrow night in postponed encounters. Neither nine should experience much trouble against the second division Wesley and St. Mary clubs.

United Brethren climbed back to the 500 mark by downing Wesley M. E. at Garfield park 4 to 2. The U B nine tallied three runs in the first inning and one in the second while the Wesleyans could not chase a run across the plate after two in the opening stanza.

Central Christian also gained an even split in its games this season by defeating St Mary at President field 9 to 5. Geissler started the winners scoring by hitting the second pitched ball for a home run. Pollock followed with a single and came home when Chuck Reed tripled. Bob Greenland scored the first St Mary run in the second connecting for three bases and coming home on Maloney's single. Three errors and Bob Truka's hit gave St Mary two more in the third while the last two for the losers came in the seventh. Two hits in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings were good for one, two and four runs respectively. The Irish were guilty of six misplays while four were chalked up against the winners.

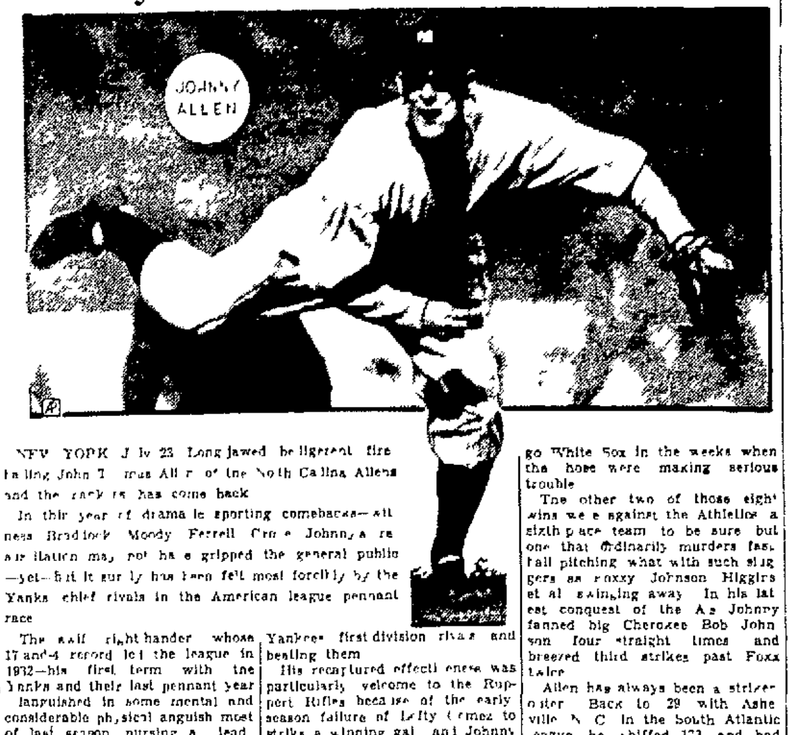
Johnny Allen Earns His Dollar



NEW YORK July 23 Long-jawed, belligerent, fire-balling John Thomas Allen of the North Carolina Allens and the Yankees has come back.

In this year of dramatic sporting comebacks—witness Braddock, Moody, Ferrell, Cronin—Johnny's rehabilitation may not have gripped the general public—yet—but it surely has been felt most forcibly by the Yanks' chief rivals in the American league pennant race.

The swift right hander whose 17-and-4 record led the league in 1932—his first term with the Yanks and their last pennant year—languished in some mental and considerable physical anguish most of last season nursing a lead arm. He appeared in only 13 games all carefully picked spots by Manager Joe McCarthy and wound up with only seven completed stints five wins and two losses.

This year his arm came back gradually but surely and at mid-term he owned one of the neatest hurling records in the league, a record bristling with big strikeout days.

Balanced Gomez, Broaca Flops

Allen came back not only a winning pitcher during that first half of the season but as a willing one doing his stuff mostly against the Yankees' first division rivals and beating them.

His recaptured effectiveness was particularly welcome to the Ruppert Rifles because of the early season failure of Lefty Gomez to strike a winning gait and Johnny Broaca's more recent failure to win the way he did a year ago when he first popped up from Yale to earn a starting role.

Six of Allen's first eight victories—he suffered but three defeats up to mid-season—were against top half contenders. He was especially poisonous to the Cleveland Indians, whipping them thrice in four starts and scoring 32 of his 75 strikeouts against the Tribesmen. He stopped the challenging Detroit Tigers in both his first two efforts and enjoyed the same 100 percent success against the Chicago White Sox in the weeks when the Sox were making serious trouble.

The other two of those eight wins were against the Athletics, a sixth place team to be sure, but one that ordinarily murders fast ball pitching what with such sluggers as Foxxy, Johnson, Higgins et al swinging away. In his latest conquest of the A's Johnny fanned big Cherokee Bob Johnson four straight times and breezed third strikes past Foxx twice.

Allen has always been a strikeouter. Back to 29 with Asheville N C in the South Atlantic league he whiffed 173 and had 140 strikeouts each of the next two seasons with Jersey City in the International before the Yanks grabbed him.

His S O record reads 109 for 1932, 119 for 33 and a 50 per cent drop to 54 for last year. Along with his arm's return to its old whipping and whiffing power this season has come much improved control. He walked only 38 batters in his first 97 innings, a good mark for him.

It looks as though Johnny's going to earn that $1 his original 1935 Yankee contract called for.

PROTESTS TABLED AT COMMISSION SESSION

Umpires and Managers Not on Hand Plan All City Selections

Five protests of city softball league games were tabled last night at a meeting of the softball commission when umpires and managers failed to appear for the airing.

Considerable misunderstanding as to whether or not officials and managers should be on hand were evident at the meeting. As a result of tabling the protests last night's meeting of the ruling body did not require much time.

The commission voted to have the Junior Board of the Y M C A sponsor the annual All-City selections and All Star game. A date for the encounter was not set. The group voted to select two teams to play in a dedication game of the lights at Lincoln park. It was also decided to have the Centennial Coal-Pleasant Lutheran postponed game Thursday at 6 15 p m on the Steam Shovel field.

SECOND FOR WEST

Young Forest Star Has 100 Strikeouts in 7 Games

Special to The Star

FOREST July 23—Floyd West 19-year-old right hander who carved a niche in baseball's Hall of Fame here Sunday when he pitched a perfect game for the Forest Merchants against the Ritz Grills of Marion gained his second no hit game this season. West did not allow a hit or a man to reach first base. West has fanned an even 100 batters in seven games he has pitched for Forest this year.

Early in the season West pitched a no-hit game against Bellefontaine. In this game 27 batters faced him but two got on one by a pass and the other on being hit by a pitched ball. Both were retired however on double plays.

Lima Indians will play at Meyer field next Sunday.

COLUMBUS WINS TWO TO GAIN ON INDIANS

Minneapolis Adds Half Game to Lead Over Second Place Club

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO July 23 Minneapolis had added a half game to its margin over Indianapolis and Columbus was a full game closer to the Indians today in the American Association race.

While the Indians were idle yesterday the Millers defeated Milwaukee 8 to 3. Columbus cashed in by winning both games of a doubleheader from Louisville 10 to 1 and 7 to 6.

Clyde Hatter, former Louisville southpaw making his first start for Milwaukee since being sent to the Brewers by the Detroit Tigers encountered a former teammate Arch McKain and got the worst of it.

Columbus battered Jack Tising for nine runs in the first three innings of the first game and Bud Tinning although hit hard coasted to an easy victory over Louisville. The Red Birds had to come from behind in the second game however scoring three runs in the last of the ninth when Marrow weakened. No other games were scheduled.

Much Talent Missing, Two Toledo Pairs Tie in Pro-Amateur Event

By The Associated Press

INVERNESS COUNTRY CLUB TOLEDO July 23—Some of the state's outstanding golf talent was missing today as the 72 hole medal play Ohio Open was launched by 60 golfers but enough top-notchers were on hand to keep the winner from holding a synthetic title.

However among the starters were Billy Burke who won the National Open over this same course in 1931 after a 72 hole play-off with George Von Elm, Lloyd Cullickson of Elyria the present champion, Al Espinosa of Akron who held the crown in 1932 and 1933, Steve Zappe of Springfield and Grange Alves of Cleveland both of whom beat the field more than a decade ago. Alves was elected president of the state P G A last night at the annual meeting.

Detroit Yank Game Rained Out Cleveland Wins from Washington 6 4

By ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

There is little [illegible] wales of New York [illegible] recent series is in jeopardy.

A few weeks ago the Giants were way out in front. The Yankees became stronger and stronger until they were at the head of the class.

It's the stadium and the Polo grounds they said. Another subway series.

Then the Cardinals and the Tigers the champs stepped out to dispute the issue with such effectiveness that today they are just one-half game each behind the leaders.

The Cardinals won their 1[illegible] game in 18 starts yesterday taking the measure of the Giants 8-5.

Hal Schumacher was driven from the mound in the third inning. The rejuvenated Bill Hallahan allowed 11 hits but they were well scattered as he hung up his sixth straight win. He did not issue a single pass.

The Yankees and Detroit were rained out. Mickey Cochrane announced Schoolboy Rowe would pitch today.

The Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the Chicago Cubs 14 to 13 in an 11 inning game in which there were 42 hits, six of them homers.

The Boston Braves ended their 15 game losing streak by taking the Cincinnati Reds 4-2. Cy Blanton, Pirate rookie, pitched Pittsburgh to its fifth straight victory defeating Philadelphia 5-4.

The Chicago White Sox moved within four games of the Yankees by defeating the Philadelphia Athletics 12-3.

The Cleveland Indians celebrated Walter Johnson day by defeating Washington 6-4. For the second time in as many days a ninth inning homer by Wes Ferrell won a game for the Boston Red Sox 2-1.

Dressen Would Pat Hurler on Back—or Give Rub-Down.

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI O July 23—Dizzy Dean of the Cardinals may need a pat on the back once in a while said Manager Chuck Dressen of the Cincinnati Reds but he added if he would win as many games for me as he did for St Louis I'd be willing to give him a whole rub down.

Addressing a club group here Dressen revealed a high opinion of the temperamental hurler.

Dean is not a college man he said but I've met him and heard him make speeches at meetings and I can't see where he's so swell headed.

ROOT TAKES FRONT ON COMEBACK TRAIL

Cub Hurler Main Factor in Drive of Chicago's Hustling Club.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 23—Traffic has been unusually heavy this year along baseball's comeback trail and in the mad rush of the Groves, Lyons, Hallahans and Sewells, back to the heights, one of the travelers—Charley Root of the Chicago Cubs—has been temporarily lost in the shuffle.

But today the Cubs, with 14 triumphs in their last 17 starts, pointed to 36-year-old Root as one of the main factors in the drive.

The veteran, who has been hurling brilliantly in relief roles, reached his peak last Sunday. Root went to the rescue of Tex Carleton in the opener of the Giant doubleheader Sunday, picking up the contest in the fourth with the score 4-2 against him, and the New York hitters on a rampage.

Root allowed only five hits and no runs, while his mates pecked away to win in the eleventh to give Root his seventh triumph and fourth straight in a relief capacity.

Last year Root was regarded as just about through as a major leaguer. He won only four games and lost seven.

Air Cooling, Streamlining Hailed by New C. & O. Head

By The Associated Press

CLEVELAND O July 24—William J Harahan again president of the Chesapeake & Ohio railroad chose air cooling and streamlining today as the best weapons in the fight of the railroads for more passenger traffic.

Harahan was elected president of the road yesterday for the second time. He succeeds the late John J Bernet who died July 5.

Harahan was also elected by the board of the Pere Marquette railroad to its presidency—another position which had been held by Mr Bernet. Harahan had served as president of C & O from 1920 to 1929 when Mr Bernet was elected to the position and Harahan was made senior vice president.

Harahan said he believes the private automobile is a great factor in reduced passenger business on the railroads.

Up to 100 miles he said the private automobile travels quickly comfortably and cheaply. When the distance gets beyond 100 miles it is not so cheap or so quick. The through passenger train with comparatively few stops with air conditioned cars can compete.

Harahan a quiet gray haired man with a somewhat round face and a gentle manner is 6[illegible]. He not only has spent his entire adult life railroading but is also second generation railroad stock. His father James T Harahan president of the Illinois Central Railroad retired at 70 and met his death a few months later in a railroad wreck.

Born Dec [illegible] 18[illegible] Harahan was educated at St John's college New Orleans and went to work immediately after graduation for the Louisville & Nashville. His actual railroading began in the L & N shops in 1881 while he was still a boy in school.

At 2? he joined the C & O for the first time as maintenance engineer on the Cincinnati division. In 1892 he became roadmaster and trainmaster of the Pontiac division of the Illinois Central. On the same road he served as assistant division superintendent then became superintendent of the Louisville division in 1896.

In 190? he was chief engineer of the Illinois Central then successively assistant general manager, general manager and finally in 190[illegible] vice president. In 1907 he moved to the Erie railroad now a Van Sweringen property as assistant to the president. He became a vice president in 1911.

He became head of a railroad for the first time in 191? when he was made president of the Seaboard Air Line a post he held until 1918. In 1918 and 1920 he served as federal manager of the same road.

Harahan does not go in for hobbies. He has had two strong interests his railroads and his family. He is the father of eight children all adult. His first wife Mrs Susan Smith Harahan whom he married in Nashville in 1890 died several years ago. He remarried last March the present Mrs Harahan being the former Mrs Elizabeth M Smith of New York.

Your Health

BY DR. R. S. COPELAND

Mastoiditis

Mastoiditis is infection of the mastoid bone It is a trouble also for rather common[illegible] in young children As a rule it follows some infection or disease such as scarlet fever measles diphtheria or influenza It may occur as a complication of the simple head cold tonsillitis or nasal sinus infection

The mastoid bone is that bony prominence felt behind the ear It is filled with many air spaces called mastoid cells These cells connect with one another and communicate with the middle ear The latter in turn connects with the nose through the eustachian tubes

Since the mastoid cells are lined with the same sort of mucous tissue that comes from the throat up to the middle ear it is readily be seen how germs can reach the mastoid bone When pus forms in the mastoid cells drainage is difficult and the infection remains pocketed

This accounts for the severe pain and discomfort that accompany mastoiditis The pus can only be removed by making an incision in the mastoid bone In former years this surgical procedure often had fatal results Today the operation is no longer feared

There is great danger in neglecting mastoiditis Bear in mind that the mastoid bone is close to the brain and though it is not a part of this delicate organ it is only separated from the brain by a very thin layer of bone If infection is present and the pus is not drained there is always danger of the infection traveling to the brain

As a rule the victim of mastoiditis complains of severe headache When the ear begins to discharge the pus relief is obtained

Fever is usually present and in young children it may be as high as 110 degrees When there is no fever a rapid pulse may be a sign of the infection In a case where the diagnosis is difficult and there is some doubt as to whether the mastoid bone is really infected X-ray pictures may reveal the trouble

Never accept earache as something trivial It is sometimes the forerunner of a serious infection It may lead to permanent impairment of the hearing as well as prolonged illness

ROOSEVELT OPPOSES TAX CUT DUE TO GIFT

Believes Companies Shouldn't Buy Good Will Through Contributions

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—Opposition to allowing deductions on tax payments due to contributions by corporations to charitable institutions was expressed today by President Roosevelt.

Recalling at his press conference that he had vetoed a similar bill allowing such deductions by utility companies in New York state when he was governor, Mr Roosevelt said he saw two good reasons why the pending proposal in congress should not be allowed.

In the first place he said the gifts are given to seek public good will. Mr Roosevelt added he did not think companies should buy good will through gifts.

Secondly Mr Roosevelt said a large number of people live on dividends from investments in corporations and he believed those who get a living this way should have the right to choose the form of charity they prefer rather than permitting officers of the corporations to make the charity gifts.

The President conceded the humanitarian purposes of corporation gifts in many instances but believed the bad reasons outweighed the good.

Other speakers included [illegible] H. [illegible] of Galion representing the [illegible] Highway association.

[illegible] representing the 11 counties that sent delegations to the meeting, emphasized need of a thorough survey as the groundwork for a planned road program, Mr. Brown said this morning.

Among the highway improvements suggested by Mr. Brown last night were beautification, elimination of hazards, elimination of grade crossings. He emphasized however that no program should be undertaken that would increase the tax burden to finance.

"We're interested in secondary roads as well as federal and state highways and the county thoroughfares," he said. He also suggested that whatever program be developed for highways and roads in Ohio should have the approval of county and township officials who are closely in touch with local situations and in constant touch with the public.

Present from Marion county at the meeting were Mr. Brown, C. K. Mercer, city service director; O. C. McCurdy, J. O. Weiss and L. J. Cusic, county commissioners; Herbert R. Krebs, representing the county surveyor's office; Merle Johnson, representing the highway resident engineer's office in Marion county; Clyde Porterfield, representing the maintenance force of the state highway department in this county; Wilbur Symes and a number of township trustees from this county.

Under military protection, however, many merchants reopened their stores yesterday and the newspapers resumed publication.

Ruhr against Spartacist and Communist insurrection.

Many years past before Adolf Hitler and his movement could build up the new German reich which in the National Socialist party and storm troops count many free corps fighters among its own fighters.

Cite End of Others

Inasmuch as other political organizations cannot be conceded the separate right of existence in the National Socialist state besides the party and its formation affiliated with and recognized by it, the outlawry finally became necessary of such formations as had not by their own accord dissolved themselves.

It is an open secret that many of these nationalist fighters in the unofficial so-called free corps do not approve of certain tendencies such as presents of political jobs to Nazi party outsiders and that they freely vented their criticism at their meetings.

As the present policy of the Hitler regime seems to be the wiping out of every formation which might become a center of dissension, the free corps fighters organization also fell under the ban.

From Erfurt word reached the capital that despite Seldte's visit to Hitler the local authorities forbade the Erfurt Steel Helmet organization to meet or to wear distinctive garb or badges.

Jews still bore the brunt of the Nazi drive against reactionaries.

The young man, who had been ill, disappeared late yesterday. The body was fully clothed when brought to the surface with grappling hooks.

Young Thomas, a graduate of the Willis High school here, was the son of Harry Thomas, a Delaware City Ice & Fuel Co. employe. His mother is the official weather observer for this city.

According to eye witnesses, Thomas parked his automobile near the quarry late yesterday and then ran briskly toward the pit. A farmer went to the quarry a few minutes later but found no trace of Thomas.

ROOSEVELT OPPOSES SECURITY CHANGES

Fights Clark Amendment To Exempt Private Systems From Proposed Plan

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, July 24—President Roosevelt today expressed opposition to the Clark amendment to the social security bill exempting private security systems from the proposed national plan.

With the house about to vote on the amendment of Sen. Clark, Democrat of Missouri, the President said he believed that all corporations should be put in the same class.

He feared the human temptation under the Clark proposal would be for private companies to load their old people on government funds and simply retain the young.

Senate and house conferees have been unable to agree on this one proposal and it is now before the house for a test.

In this connection the President told at his regular press conference that he has not yet found a real labor pension bill that would get supreme court approval.

Commenting on [illegible] of AAA officials in Washington that the [illegible] from the calamity [illegible] Mr. Anderson pointed to the general improvement in the state and county agricultural picture as evidence that the improvement for the nation as a whole also exists in Ohio and Marion county.

The wheat yield in Marion county is averaging 24 to [illegible] bushels an acre according to preliminary reports, representing approximately a [illegible] per cent increase over last year's sun-scorched yield, he pointed out.

Likewise Marion county shared in a 7.6 per cent increase in Ohio's milk production in the first six months of 1935 as compared with the corresponding period of 1934. The gain, Mr. Anderson said, is due largely to better pastures.

Also he continued, truck farming is producing wonderful crops in the county this year, whereas a year ago truck farmers had poor crops last year because of the lack of rainfall.

Although refusing to make any predictions for the 1935 corn crop he commented that in his opinion the present status of the corn crop to date is better than at corresponding dates in previous years.

The Stars Say--

For Thursday, July 25

A DAY of conflicting circumstances is read from the prevailing lunar and mutual aspects. While employment is under fair promise and there is a hint of a sudden change or journey, yet there also may be baffling or frustrating forces to surmount. Delays, anxieties and disappointments are seen, but nevertheless auguries of hearty friendships and good will may prove compensatory in time of trouble. But be alert in signing papers of all kinds.

Those whose birthday it is may look for a fairly progressive and prosperous year despite certain obstructing, delaying or disappointing factors with which to cope. Employment should flourish and there may be a sudden or unforeseen change, removal or journey. But in all the offices of good friends and well-wishers, with happy social or domestic support is assured.

A child born on this day may be talented, skillful and original, although probably critical and difficult in many ways. It will succeed best in employment.

Again he [illegible] his [illegible] her lips clung [illegible] great wave of [illegible] she [illegible] seem to [illegible] and to be born anew.

The door be[illegible] the terse atmosphere of the room filled with human passion and [illegible] and pain.

Rex Moore [illegible] Laurie ever closer for a strange silen[illegible] moment [illegible]

"This is the [illegible] he [illegible] "I can't keep [illegible] off Laurie—" He looked [illegible] with [illegible] eyes. "Isn't [illegible] the [illegible] thing in the world? C[illegible] be[illegible] Of course we [illegible] believe in [illegible] because [illegible] Wait till I come back. Wait for me."

She was leaning against the wall. Slowly her face was composing itself, losing its unearthly radiance.

"I think we're mad," she muttered.

"I must go. We're not mad. Wait till I get back."

Another close embrace, desperate in its tragic ease. And he was gone.

Laurie heard the door shut. She did not move; tears ran down her face. She was in a new world. Rex Moore loved her. She loved him. He had gone, but he would come back.

This was what she had been born for. This was what all her life had led to—blindly, groping, searching. It had led her to Rex Moore, her man.

From below came the sonorous hoot of Mark Albery's car as the chauffeur drove off. Through her exaltation it struck Laurie's ears with a note of warning and fear. She knew that without Rex Moore there would now be no life for her. She might be alive, but she would not live.

* * *

"Glad, I'm worried to death," said Laurie three nights later when her sister came back from the theatre.

"What, no cable from your hero yet?" the girl asked teasingly. "But you know he's pulled it off, old girl, broken another record. He's being smothered with bouquets and banquets, you bet, and hasn't a minute to himself. You're a comic character, all right, Laurie. Only the other day you were telling me you didn't know whether you were going to get on with Rex. And now you're worn to a shadow because you haven't heard from him."

"It isn't that, Glad," said Laurie. "It's you."

"Me?"

"Look at this."

Laurie held out a letter which the younger girl took and read. It was typewritten and bore no address.

Does Mr. Rex Moore know that her sister Gladys goes about with a swell young man all the time and goes to his rooms alone after the show?

Gladys crumbled the paper into a ball and flung it on the floor. Her face was so contorted with anger that it seemed to lose all trace of beauty.

"Well, you don't mean you take any notice of a thing like this?" she cried shrilly.

"Glad, is it true?" Laurie's desperate anxiety forced her sister to show some slight compunction.

"Oh, don't be silly. Where did this beastly thing come from?"

"The postmark is London, S. E."

"It's one of the girls, of course. There's more than one jealous of me since I'm leader of the troupe."

"But, Glad, is it true?"

"It must be one of the girls." Gladys went on, bent on her own train of thought. "It couldn't be anybody else. Must be somebody who knows you're my sister and how silly you are about me."

"Silly, Glad, how can you be so mean? Is it true?"

"Well, of course I go out with a boy sometimes. What girl doesn't? Aren't you often having meals with Mr. Albery? You're a nice one to carry on like this."

"Glad, is it the same young man you told me about?"

"Yes," the girl said, telling the truth and lying at the same time.

"But you told me the other day he'd gone abroad."

"Yes, but he's back."

"You said you'd bring him here to meet me."

"I know. But he hasn't had time yet. He's back in London on business."

The cruelest thing of her life happened to Laurie then. She knew for certain that Gladys was lying to her. That Gladys meant to lie to her.

And she didn't know what to do.

She realized that it was no good scolding. She must try other methods.

"You might be straight with me, Glad. I don't want to pry into your affairs. But even nowadays a girl doesn't go to a young man's rooms alone. You don't deny it. And I don't want to be nasty, dear, but it's risky to go about with a man in a different position in life."

"Oh, hang it all, I can't help it if he has money," cried Gladys. "And I've only been to his rooms once. And some interfering, jealous cat must have followed me. I'm ashamed of you, Laurie, taking notice of such a disgusting letter."

"I wish you would let me meet him," said Laurie quietly. "Has he asked you to marry him, Glad? Do you mind telling me that?"

"He can't marry for a bit. His father won't let him. He's got to make good in business. But I don't mind waiting. I'm not too keen to get married at once. I want to have lots of fun. I'll bring him along some day, if you promise not to scare him stiff."

But Laurie knew Gladys didn't mean her to meet this young man. She said nothing more. She must try to get the girl to trust her. It was the only way with Glad.

But she was full of foreboding. Also she was full of confusion. That last scene with Rex Moore was like a dream. Like a dream that sometimes is more real than life. He loved her. And yet she had not heard a word from him directly, although he had made a new and magnificent record flight. Her news came from Albery and from the papers. That was all.

The next day was Sunday. Jimmy Dallas drove Glad back from their favorite ha[illegible] on the river and drew up at the door of the building at the back of St. James street in which he had his chambers.

"Come up for a cocktail, Flower face," he invited.

"I'd better not," the girl said. "I've got to go out to dinner with Laurie tonight. Couldn't get out of it."

Glady was by no means a fool, although she was crazy about Jimmy Dallas. The anonymous letter to her sister had made a great impression on her. It was simply loathsome to be watched. She determined to make it her business to find out who was doing it.

Anyway, she decided she wouldn't go to the young man's rooms again.

"Just for a few minutes, cutie," he urged. "I'm sure you're in need of a drink. Same here."

She could not resist those merry, luring, brown-green eyes with their will-o'-the-wisp lightness and frivolity and their power of making her follow—follow wherever they wanted her to go.

Gladys' entanglement grows tomorrow.

The average girl would like to think of herself as every man's dream and every woman's [illegible].

* * *

It may make a woman angry for people to say untrue things about her, but nothing gals her so deeply as when they happen to hit on the bitter truth.

* * *

A ten-cent combination can opener, [illegible] and [illegible] opener has saved many a bachelor from matrimony, but fortunately no kitchen appliance has yet been invented which will take the place of a wife.

A woman may forget who discovered radium, who found the South Pole and at which end to sign a check, but she never forgets a tribute to her charms or a blow to her vanity.

* * *

At this glamorous season almost any man would [illegible] in to an engagement if it were not that it is so apt to lead to marriage.

* * *

The plainest girl can manage to attain synthetic beauty in these days of magic and [illegible], but there seems to be no way of duplicating brains.

A husband who never notices your clothes may be a disappointment, but he is never such a thorn in the side as the one who fancies that just the fact of being a married man has endowed him with the expert eye and critical taste of a fashion designer.

A bachelor always boasts that he is single from choice, but no modern spinster would be so naive as to try to put that one over, even when it happens to be true.

Everybody is constantly diagnosing marriage—but nobody ever seems to be able to discover any reliable prescription or magic formula that will make it foolproof.

Mary Is Disturbed as She Learns Intruder Is Former Suitor, Jack Leslie.

A[illegible] Madge [illegible] Leslie [illegible] were Katherine [illegible] with the [illegible] with them [illegible] had reached the years of [illegible]

I was a name associated with [illegible] of Mary's [illegible] which [illegible] involving [illegible] her past [illegible] twisted by enemies [illegible] very damaging.

[illegible] Mary darling," I begged, "Junior and Roderick are in the next room with the baby. Do you think they might have heard her?" I turned to Katherine in anxious appeal.

Eases Tension

"Not a chance this time," Katherine said with a cheerful nonchalance which I knew was cunningly calculated to ease the tension of Mary's nerves. "She didn't utter the name very distinctly, and any[illegible] was the boys [illegible] to [illegible] less [illegible] than [illegible] I [illegible] them they were to [illegible] Faith from crying [illegible] they are taking turns [illegible] of their respective [illegible] and [illegible]

Despite her apparent carelessness I saw that her keen eyes were watching Mary, and that she was poising the instant when her monologue would cease to be diverting and become irritating. Instead, as Mary suddenly stirred restlessly, she said quickly, still keeping her careless conversational tone:

"Better tell her about this peccadillo, Madge. Facing reality is never so bad as imagining things."

"Then it is Jack," Mary began, her voice high-pitched with hysteria, but I put my hand lightly [illegible] firmly over her lips.

"I will tell you everything [illegible]," I said, "if you will be quiet [illegible] not utter that name again so that anyone save Aunt Katherine and I can hear you. Promise?"

Mary Reassured

She nodded her head emphatically and I took my hand from her lips.

"First, let me assure you of something," I said emphatically. "Whether this lunatic singing from the tree is the man you just named or some other person, he has power to harm neither you nor anybody else. The state troopers caught him [illegible] that [illegible] so he can be kept in jail for quite a long period, and he is going to stay there. Make no mistake about that.

He cannot possibly escape," I went on. "In the darkness just now he broke away, but they would have caught him again only for his climbing that tree. The troopers [illegible] not wish to risk harming him, so they are waiting beneath the tree until daylight, when [illegible]

But why [illegible] if he be the man you think [illegible]," she went on. "Don't you know who he is? You must know something about him. How long has he been around here? And why haven't you warned me about him? Why, I might have met him face to face."

There was horror and fright in her voice. I bent over her, [illegible] my hands over her twisting [illegible]

"Do you think so little of our resourcefulness, Mary?" I asked in reproachful accents. "Do you believe that there ever has been a [illegible] idea chance of that man being permitted to meet you?" He began to make inquiries about [illegible] yesterday, asking to see you. He was given [illegible] and that you were away on a visit, and that we did not know when you would be back. And when he asked for your address we refused to give it to him.

FAST GAMES SEEN IF WEATHER MAN GIVES CITY TEAMS A BREAK

Gasco Silk Mill Tilt Feature Methodist Clubs To Meet Tonight

If the weather man will give the city softball commission a break at all, some close and clean play will be seen under the lights at Lincoln park during the remainder of the week.

Although the Epworth Seniors stepped ahead of their Methodist rivals in the twilight league yesterday, tonight's encounter promises to be a battle for the cellar position. The two Epworth teams will meet at 8 o'clock, weather permitting, in a Free Night attraction. The game is a postponed affair of June 14.

The twilight games of the Monday night league tonight give little promise of leader standings shifting. Forest Lawn should have little trouble against Wesley M. E., although the Epworth Bishops may encounter more opposition from St. Mary.

The second meeting of Silk Mill and Gasco teams, leaders in the Industrial League, is scheduled for under the lights at Lincoln park tomorrow night. The largest crowd of the season saw the Weavers top the Gasmen 8 to 4 in the first setto. Since that time Gasco has shown considerable improvement and should give a good account of themselves.

Gasco players hope to cut the Weavers' lead to two full games and assure themselves of a mathematical chance of gaining a deadlock. Gasco has yet to meet the Hamburger Inn and Walters & Dibennett teams in regular games and Pollak in a postponed event. Silk Mill must play the Steam Shovel and Pollak teams in regular games and the Hamburger Inn in a delayed contest. Two losses for the Weavers in the next three games would give the Gasmen a chance.

Pleasant Lutherans will have an opportunity Thursday night to maintain their lead in the Commercial League this week when they play a postponed game with Centennial Coal Thursday night. The Marion [illegible] were not scheduled to play this week but the game was added by the commission in an effort to clear the slate of delayed games.

Indications now point to the need of playoff for league titles in three of the four circuits. Silk Mill has the remotest chance of losing its claim to a crown. Teams are running neck and neck in both church leagues and Commercial loop.

LEE STREET CLIMBS TO TIE IN STANDING

Intermediate League Lead Is Shared as Wesley M. E. Loses, 9 to 6

Lee Street climbed into a tie with Wesley M. E. for the leadership in the Intermediate Sunday School softball league by a 9 to 6 victory over the Methodists at the Steam Shovel field in this week's round of play.

The Children's Home team, last year's champions, continued their steady advance toward the top by winning on their own diamond 7 to 1 from the Trinity Baptist nine. Calvary took the third game played this week 11 to 10 from the Emmanuel Lutheran boys.

In the Lee Street game Hostetter of the winners hit a home run and Lashey was credited with two. A double play in the seventh inning, Hostetter to Kidd, ended a late Wesley M. E. rally.

"SAFE AT HOME"

Sammy Byrd, Reds Star, Uninjured In Auto Mishap

By The Associated Press

CINCINNATI, O., July 24.—Sammy Byrd, youthful outfielder of the Cincinnati Reds, was safe at home today after a hit in an automobile accident.

Byrd was uninjured even though the side of the car he was driving was caved in by the impact. Byrd told police the driver of the other machine did not observe a stop sign at an intersection.

ORVILLE CADDIES TAKE LONG BATTLE

COLUMBUS, O., July 24.—Sam [illegible] and Ross Shie, both of the Orrville O. Country club, won the Ohio caddie championship cup yesterday after a 28-hole battle. They tied with Louis Meeks and Dick Moser of the Beaver Valley Country club of Springfield over 18 holes with 75 in a best ball match. Nine more holes gave each pair 41. On the 28th hole [illegible] and Shie shot a five and the other took a six.

For the second time in as many days standings in two softball leagues were knotted last night at Lincoln park when Lee Street routed the Presbyterian nine from the top of the No. 1 Sunday School circuit 7 to 5.

With both teams guilty of erratic play, Lee Street sent the Presbies back into a tie with St. Mary and advanced their own ranking to one half game behind the deadlocked leaders. Lee Street and Trinity Baptist have played one less game than other clubs, their game of July 9 being postponed. The long delayed game and a 0-0 tie between First Reformed and Epworth Seniors are all the No. 1 league is in the arrears. Forest Lawn lost its slim lead in No. 2 league Monday night.

For four and a half innings the erstwhile league leaders played about 10 degrees poorer than the cellar teams. In the last half of the fifth the Presbies came to life, chased five runs across the plate, sent Benny Crabtree to the bench and made the winners lose their poise for a few brief minutes.

Richards Saves Game

Shorty Richards moved over from his first base post to the pitching slab and saved the Lee Streeters from sacrificing all the lead they had gained earlier. With only one batsman retired and the bases loaded he retired the side and held the rejuvenated Presbies to two hits.

Freddy Vestal was in hot water continually as he walked eight men and failed to get fielding support from his teammates. Only in [illegible] the record could the Presbies retire the side in [illegible] [illegible] for [illegible] his own form [illegible] in the last two innings [illegible] of his teammates [illegible] at his own failure to get the ball over the plate. He showed better control then and received credit for three strikeouts, the only ones of the game.

Lee Street received a gift run in the first inning when Kerr Conkle was safe at first as Lefty Clark dropped a throw, went to second on a passed ball and came home as Gabby Gallant, Presby catcher, threw wild to third in an attempt to catch him stealing.

Go on Hitting Spree

A double by Richards, Lee Street's first hit of the game, gave the winners two more runs in the third. Mike Braham received the first of three walks in a row and Johnny Marshall reached first on Clark's second misplay of the game. Both runners advanced on passed balls and the Lee Street first baseman sent a long blow into centerfield.

Lee Street batted through its entire lineup to score four runs in the fourth. With one man retired Bob Van Scoy connected for his first of two doubles. Wade Conkle doubled to centerfield and Van Scoy scored. Conkle came home on Kunkle's single. Crabtree was out, Lindsey to Clark, and Braham walked. Kunkle and Braham scored as Johnny Marshall poled out a single.

A sizzling grounder which went through Richards' feet at first in the opening frame for a triple was the only hit off Crabtree until the fatal fifth. Bill Pohler, Presby right fielder, beat out a roller to shortstop and Clark and Vestal singled through the pitching box to start the fireworks.

Zahn Gets Homer

Bobby Zahn at this point turned in the best hitting feat of the game by clearing the bases with a long home run blow to deep rightfield. Lindsey singled, reached third on a passed ball and came home on Milt Pohler's fly to Van Scoy in rightfield. Gabby Gallant singled and Richards took the mound for Lee Street. Castner singled but the tenth and eleventh batsmen of the inning were out before further scoring could be done.

For the first time in the memory of Marion's softball fans all afternoon games were won by forfeit. Bad weather raised enough doubt in the minds of First Reformed, Epworth No. 1 and Calvary players that no games would be played that few men showed up for the contests. A forfeit victory for the Epworth Seniors put them ahead of John Clark's team in the battle for seventh place.

STAGG IS READY FOR ANOTHER GRID SEASON

Grand Old Man Starting 44th Year, Says Public Growing Soft

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 24 — Amos Alonzo Stagg, who at 72 plays a brisk game of tennis and is enthusiastically making ready to start his 44th season of football coaching, thinks the American public is growing soft.

The veteran grid mentor—a football coach before Connie Mack managed his first baseball club—denounced all classes of the American people for what he called the practice of paving the way of athletes through college.

"There is too much of a tendency today for people to desire things handed them with no effort in return," said the grand old man of American football. "I'm afraid when we start rewarding or paying athletes in any way we just encourage that feeling a little more."

Stagg, who plans to resume his coaching duties at the College of the Pacific, doesn't rate professional football as high as general opinion has it.

"The players are fast, active and remarkably clever," he said, "but there is none of the viciousness about their game which marks college football."

Yanks and Giants Hold Slim Leads

CARDS DROP SECOND, AFTER LEADING LOOP; TIGERS CAPTURE NO. 2

Berger's Second Homer Loses Reds Game in Twelfth Inning

BY ANDY CLARKE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The New York teams grimly held their half game leads today as the St. Louis Cardinals and the Detroit Tigers sought to tear them from the pinnacle.

The well laid plan of Mickey Cochrane went astray as his ace moundsman, Schoolboy Rowe, failed to turn in the victory that would have shot the Battling Tigers into the lead.

Rowe lost the first game to the Yanks 7-[illegible] as Manager Mickey Cochrane belted a homer but Vic Sorrell evened matters in the second, holding the Yanks to eight hits as the Tigers won 3-1.

Hurlers Are Chased

Rowe wasn't the only star pitcher to meet defeat. Johnny Allen and Lefty Gomez of the Yanks took early showers although Allen got credit for winning the first game.

The Giants lost the first game of their doubleheader with the Cards 6-1 and took the second 8-2. Paul Dean allowed four hits and fanned 12 as Joe Medwick hit two for the circuit in the first, giving the Cards a temporary league lead.

Pepper Martin's three errors figured heavily in the Giants' victory in the nightcap. It was the [illegible] straight defeat for the Giants who seemed a cinch for the pennant not long ago.

The third place Chicago Cubs closed in by sweeping a doubleheader with the Brooklyn Dodgers 6-1 and 8-0. It boosted the Cubs' winning streak to 11 out of 17 games and lifted them to within three games of the Giants.

Wally Berger led the Boston Braves to their second straight triumph over the Cincinnati Reds 7-6, scoring three runs with a homer in the second inning and then winning the game with another, his twentieth homer, in the twelfth.

The Athletics whitewashed the Chicago White Sox 2-0 although Vernon Kennedy on the mound for the Sox allowed but three hits. Johnny Marcum, pitching for the Athletics, allowed eight hits but he was invincible with men on the bases.

The St. Louis Browns defeated the Boston Red Sox 7-2 as they shelled four Boston pitchers with 14 hits. Cleveland had a 3-2 lead when rain halted the game with Washington in fourth.

INDIANAPOLIS GAINS ON A.A. PACE-SETTERS

Columbus Red Birds Lose Ground by 9-8 Defeat in 14 Innings

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, July 24—Rolling along on the tide of a six game winning streak the Indianapolis Indians were only two full games away from the pace-setting Minneapolis Millers in the American Association pennant race today.

While the Millers were crushed under a 15 hit attack by Milwaukee last night 10 to 3 the Indians won their sixth straight and picked up a full game on the leaders by trimming Toledo 7 to 1. Louisville also accommodated the Indians by defeating Columbus 9 to 8 in a 14 inning game at Columbus, giving the Indians a three game lead over the third place Red Birds.

A crowd of 8020 that turned out to welcome the Kansas City Blues home from a long jaunt saw them pile up a five run lead in the first three innings and coast along to a 6 to 4 victory over St. Paul. The Saints got to Strauss for two runs in the seventh but Moore relieved him and pitched hitless ball the rest of the way.

AMICK WINS GAME AT CAMP PERRY

Art Amick, Marion butter and egg man, hurler of Central Christian and K. of P. teams, helped to win a close baseball game for Co. I of the Ohio National Guard, a letter from the boys at Camp Perry today reported.

Amick pitched the Marion guardsmen to a 5 to 4 victory over the Athens players. Errors were responsible for three of the losers' runs. Don McAninch and Gayle Owens of the winners collected triples.

Lost—one scorebook.

An official scorebook of the softball commission carrying approximately 10 games turned up missing at the Y. M. C. A. nearly a month ago. Inquiries and sleuthing have failed to locate its whereabouts. The book included one of the disputed games now before the softball commission for airing.

Softball fans, managers and players have been asked by commission officials to be on the watch for the stray book. It is impossible to compute batting and fielding averages for the season until it is returned.

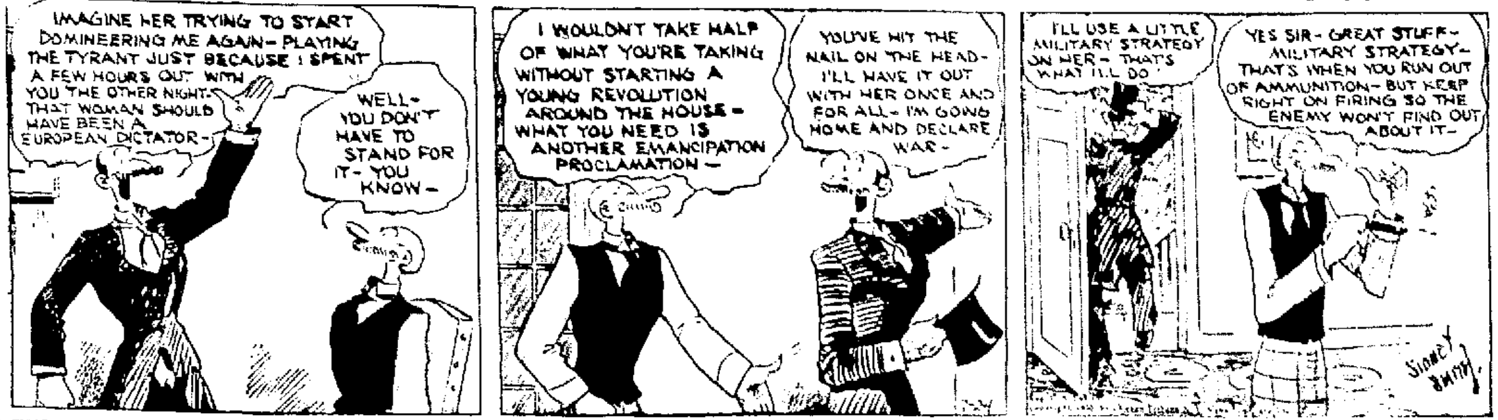
THE GUMPS

BY SIDNEY SMITH



IMAGINE HER TRYING TO START DOMINEERING ME AGAIN- PLAYING THE TYRANT JUST BECAUSE I SPENT A FEW HOURS OUT WITH YOU THE OTHER NIGHT- THAT WOMAN SHOULD HAVE BEEN A EUROPEAN DICTATOR-
WELL- YOU DON'T HAVE TO STAND FOR IT- YOU KNOW-
I WOULDN'T TAKE HALF OF WHAT YOU'RE TAKING WITHOUT STARTING A YOUNG REVOLUTION AROUND THE HOUSE- WHAT YOU NEED IS ANOTHER EMANCIPATION PROCLAMATION-
YOU'VE HIT THE NAIL ON THE HEAD- I'LL HAVE IT OUT WITH HER ONCE AND FOR ALL- I'M GOING HOME AND DECLARE WAR-
I'LL USE A LITTLE MILITARY STRATEGY ON HER- THAT'S WHAT I'LL DO-
YES SIR- GREAT STUFF- MILITARY STRATEGY- THAT'S WHEN YOU RUN OUT OF AMMUNITION- BUT KEEP RIGHT ON FIRING SO THE ENEMY WON'T FIND OUT ABOUT IT-
SIDNEY SMITH

SOPHIE, IT'S ALL SET---I'M MADE-- I'M TO BE FEATURED IN THE MOVIES---I GET $1000.00 A WEEK TO START----

OH, DAN, I'M SO PROUD OF YOU!
I MUST PHONE ALL MY FRIENDS THE GOOD NEWS!
I AIN'T WHAT YOU CALL HANDSOME, BUT THEY SAY I'M A TYPE--- MAYBE THE TRICKY LITTLE SPARKLE IN MY EYE IS WHAT CAUGHT THEIR FANCY!
IF COLONEL HOOFER EVER TRIES TO HIGH-HAT ME I'LL SCRATCH HIM OFF OF MY LIST, TOOTS----- HE MAY TURN OUT TO BE A MOVIE IDOL TO THE REST OF THE WORLD, BUT HE'LL ALWAYS BE JUST AN ASH-CAN TO ME!

Town Will Celebrate Anniversary of Trial

Malone

Hays

John T Scopes

Darrow and Bryan at trial

By International News Service

DAYTON Tenn—This little town is getting ready to celebrate an anniversary The anniversary is in recognition of an event that raised the community out of the unknown class into a world famous place That event was the Scopes evolution trial

It was 10 years ago that the famous and yet bizarre case began While accomplishing nothing according to some the case did much to give the world a better understanding of the theory of evolution and more fame for such world renowned names as William Jennings Bryan Clarence Darrow and Dudley Field Malone

Three days have been set aside for the celebration The surviving participants in the trial have been invited to come to Dayton for the occasion Sept 23 to 25 No program has been made as yet

The celebration in itself will be an important event for Dayton Since the Scopes trial the small mountain town has kept on its even course and gone about its business as usual with however new biology textbooks in its schools

Back in 1925 a group of young men including John Thomas Scopes sat in a Robinson drug store They were discussing evolution G W Rappelyea a chemist and an engineer for a local company persuaded Scopes who at the time was a science teacher in Dayton high school to admit that he had taught the doctrine of evolution in the school in opposition to the state law which had just been passed A group of men decided to test the law As a result Scopes was arrested May 5

Scopes Found Guilty

The trial began on July 10 with Scopes being defended voluntarily by three outstanding jurists of the country Clarence Darrow Dudley Field Malone and Arthur Garfield Hays The prosecution was headed by William Jennings Bryan the Democratic commoner and orator who campaigned unsuccessfully several times for the presidency

For two weeks the trial raged with religion law and scholasticism serving as the verbal points of the noted orators The climax came when Bryan took the stand and was questioned by Darrow and Malone on his literal belief in the Bible The trial ended on July 21 when Scopes was found guilty He was assessed a fine of $100 by Judge John T Raulston

The supreme court of Tennessee later reversed the case on the ground that the trial judge exceeded his authority in the amount of the fine in a misdemeanor case Constitutionality of the monkey law was upheld It remains in effect today despite another attempt this spring to take it off the books

Worn by the strain of the trial Bryan died in his sleep the next day After the case Scopes went to Illinois where he studied at the University of Chicago Later he moved to Paducah Ky and was a nominee for congressman at large from Kentucky on the Socialist ticket in 1932
